Warships and Aircraft Escort President Up Boston Harbor As Guns Roar, Whistles Shriek and Thousands of People Cheer

Hello, Folks! Glad To Be Back Home Again!

Tremendous Ovation as Chief Executive Steps on American Soil After History Making Trip Abroad

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—President Wilson's reception in Boston today was characterized by those who traveled with him through Europe as being fully as demonstrative as any he received in England, France or Italy.

Landed at 11:42 A. M.

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—President Wilson landed at Commonwealth pier at 11:42 a. m.

Returning to American soil from his history-making mission abroad, the president accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, was transferred in the lower harbor from the steamship George Washington, and escorted by aircraft, submarine chasers, torpedo boat destroyers, and a flotilla of committee boats, reached the landing place on board the naval cutter Ossipee.

Vigorous and Alert

The president looked as though the journey had agreed with him physically. He appeared vigorous and alert, his step was brisk and his features showed rather more than a trace of sea tan.

Tremendous Cheers

Cheers from the throng assembled at Commonwealth pier greeted him as he stepped ashore. In the great shed of the pier built by the state and taken over by the navy department during the war as a housing place for recruits there were assembled hundreds of state and city officials, legislators, representatives of the federal government and a committee of women appointed to receive Mrs. Wilson.

Guard of Honor at Pier

Fifty senior officers of the army, navy and state guard in command of Col. Thomas W. Griffith, formed a guard of honor at the pier. They stood in a double line on the lower deck of the pier and President Wilson and party passed through their ranks as he stepped ashore. After saluting, they proceeded with the party through a flag-draped canvas street, an archway of flags to the street, and then by elevators to the big throng was waiting.

Official Greeting

The reception was of an informal character. Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the governor, and Mrs. Peters, wife of the mayor, were among the first to welcome the President and Mrs. Wilson and their party. Mayor Peters, at whose invitation the president chose Boston as his home-coming port, made the presentations. Prominent among those who came with the president from France and disembarked with him, were David R. Francis, ambassador to Russia; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Roosevelt, and Rear Admiral T. Grayson, the president's physician.

Wedge of Soldiers and Sailors

Less than half an hour was consumed by the greeting. Then the presidential party entered automobiles and began a parade across the city through streets lined throughout the two mile route by double ranks of soldiers and sailors and backed by cheering thousands.

Mayor Rides With President

In the car with the president and Mrs. Wilson were Gov. Coolidge and Mayor Peters. Secret service men were in the next car. The third car, carrying Major General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the Northeastern department; Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commanding the first naval district; Major General Henry H. Quinn, commanding at Camp Devens; and Brigadier General John W. Buckman, commanding the North Atlantic coast artillery district. Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Peters, Ambassador Francis and Rear Admiral Grayson were in the next car and in others were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Beahan, Mrs. Wilson's secretary, and Congressmen Hefner, Norton and White.

WILSON PICTURES AT LOCAL THEATRE

Due to the quick acting and enterprise of the management of the Merrimack Square Theatre, that theatre shortly after 6 p. m. today will exhibit motion pictures now being made in Boston of President Wilson's welcome back to America. The pictures—early 1700 feet of film—cover almost fully every moment of the president's busy day in the Hub.

Every first class theatre in New England may be showing motion pictures of this historic event Tuesday evening but tonight the only theatre in the six states outside of one or two Boston theatres, to show these pictures will be the Merrimack Square.

The film will show the steamship George Washington in President Wilson's official reception boat, accompanied by state, official reception committee including Lowell members, being received by the president and Mrs. Wilson and their suite, on board the steamship, the president transferring to the S. S. Ossipee, his disembarkation at Commonwealth pier, parade through Boston's business district, scenes at Beacon hill, at the Copley-Plaza, at Mechanics building, outside and interior and finally his departure for the capital from South station.

This prompt service could only be obtained at extraordinary expense but its value to the Merrimack Square by way of advertising is, of course, enormous. The usual prices will prevail at the theatre for the engagement of the President Wilson pictures which are to be seen also on Tuesday and Wednesday at all shows.

Heavy Guard on Duty

Especially precautions had been taken to safeguard the progress of the chief executive through the city and secret services, men and police, detachments were numerous along the route of the parade. Fifty mounted policemen headed the procession, while Troop A of the state guard, mounted, acted as the president's escort. The guard of honor formed a double row on each side of the street all the way from the pier to the Copley-Plaza hotel, where suites were reserved for the presidential party, and beyond that point to Mechanics' hall. Each man in the line stood within three feet of the one next him and strict orders were given that no one was to be permitted to pass through. In the guard of honor were two battalions of the 34th Infantry from Camp Devens, coast artillery companies from Portland, Me., and Newport, R. I., naval reservists from Bunkin Island, sailors from the ship-bunking board training school and units from the state guard.

A detail of 200 yeowomen was part of the guard of honor near the viaduct and stood at attention as the president passed.

HEARING ON AUDITORIUM BILL POSTPONED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Feb. 24.—On suggestion of Representative Corbett of Lowell, the municipal finance committee today postponed consideration of the Lowell public auditorium bill, with a view to giving a complete hearing on the question later after the chairman of the committee had expressed the opinion that more time would be necessary than was at the disposal of the body. Mr. Corbett held that either a thorough hearing be given today or, that if this could not be done, a postponement be effected and a public hearing held in Lowell. Mr. Corbett said that as it would be impossible for opponents of the bill to visit the state house again the course was the only fair one. After some discussion the committee voted to postpone consideration and to take under advisement the question of holding the next hearing in Lowell.

James Reilly, spokesman for the supporters of the bill, said he preferred the bill be considered at the present hearing, but that he and his party were willing to accede to the wishes of the committee. He said, however, that the majority of his people, who desired to express their views were present, and intimated that all information necessary could be furnished by them.

Mayor Thompson supported Mr. Reilly's views and alluded to the fact that he and his friends did not care to "inconvenience" the committee. This latter remark was brought forth after Chairman Hudson had expressed the opinion that possibly many among those present desired to see the presidential parade. Mayor Thompson would not admit that a Lowell hearing would be more abundant than one held in the State House.

TAG DAY FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF FUND

Hundreds of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and volunteer workers are canvassing the city today selling tags for the near east relief fund campaign, which must receive a vigorous push forward if Lowell's quota is to be reached.

At present the Lowell district is far behind, or, to be exact, about $28,000 short of the $120,000 quota, and Otto Hockmeyer, chairman of the local committee, has said that if the complete quota is not reported at the meeting to be held this evening at 8:30 o'clock in Memorial hall, the campaign will continue until the amount is obtained. No meeting of workers was held this noon.

On Saturday and Sunday the relief fund committee concentrated its attack upon the theatres and splendid results followed. Several men, including

J. Joseph Hennessy, James H. Carmichael, Benjamin S. Fournier, Oscar B. White and Otto Hockmeyer, spoke at many of the theatres and earnestly urged a spontaneous and generous response to the needs of the suffering peoples of Syria and Armenia.

The collections at the theatres amounted to $1517.15, being proportioned as follows: Owl, $135.65; Jewel, $19.90; Merrimack Square, $302.25; Keith's, $125.68; Royal, $28.22; Opera House, $192.65; Crown, $25.12; Strand, $283.76.

The teams of collectors were out bright and early this morning and will continue their work until 3 o'clock tonight.

4TH DEGREE, K. C. DINNER

Brilliant Event in Memorial Hall Saturday Night—
Good Entertainment

Rarely in the history of the Knights of Columbus has a more brilliant and inspiring event been held in Lowell than the grand patriotic dinner of the Fourth degree Knights of Columbus held in Memorial hall Saturday evening. Over 100 knights and their ladies were in attendance and the evening was carried out with a high order of excellence. The addresses all tinged with a patriotic flavor, the musical talent unsurpassed in excellence and the hall, sumptuously one of the most beautiful in the state, formed a palace of reasons why the event was the most of its kind ever conducted by the assembly. The decorations were simple—Memorial hall with its dignified painted walls, the artificial decorative touch—and in their simplicity, gave a charm to the scene. The knights in evening dress, with the red, white and blue sashes of the degree, the ladies in evening gowns, were a picture to which visitors resorted to during the evening. A handsome best of Washington occupied a prominent place at the head table, while those were placed in accordance with the hall in standards. At the Western street table, Donnelly's orchestra, directed by a band of brass and pointed pianos, played during the dinner, the dinner singing "Till We Meet Again," "I Ain't Got No Weary Yet," "Smiles" and other catchy songs. At the head table, at the Merrimack street end, were seated, Faithful Navigator Thomas R. Delaney and Mrs. Delaney, Mayor Golden of Woburn and Mrs. Golden, the latter a former Lowell young lady. Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, toastmaster, and Miss Mary M. O'Leary, District Deputy John J. Donovan of Lawrence, District Deputy Charles J. Lander, Grand Knight Robert H. Thomas, Hon. Louis Watson, master of the Massachusetts district, fourth degree, Hon. Charles S. Connor of Boston, Lieut. Paul H. Hines of the 102nd Infantry, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, Rev. James F. Lynch and Rev. Michael C. Gilbride.

The dinner opened at 6:15 o'clock the knights marching in the hall under the direction of Sir Knight John P. Golden. The favors were miniature cherry trees, hats of various types and vintages, little axes, while at the head table, a large cherry tree stood with the inevitable axe lying by its side. The favors made a distinct hit with everybody, particularly the ladies. When the cigars and candy were passed around and everyone was comfortable, Faithful Navigator Delaney, than whom none is more earnest in K. of C. work in these parts, rapped to order and started the after dinner exercises, with a happy speech of welcome, bristling with words of welcome to all, and expressive of the thanks of the assembly to the committee in charge. The basic principle of the fourth degree he said was lived up to in every respect he said and he craved the indulgence of the assembly for the program of song and story that is to follow. He presented as toastmaster, Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, chairman of the dinner committee, who responded as follows:

Toastmaster John V. Donoghue
"This is a very happy occasion indeed that brings us together in this beautiful hall tonight. Blending in perfect harmony with the significance of Washington's birthday, it is eminently fitting that the Knights of Columbus, the preeminent patriotic fraternal order in the world, should meet in a building, built and dedicated in

When the stomach is out of order, the liver not working properly, your heart is obliged to do so much extra work, that it causes palpitation, faintness, and if not checked becomes dangerous.

All these things conspire to make this night a really notable one in the annals of the assembly.

"At a time like this 'tis profitable and inspiring to reflect upon the enriching processes of peace the whole world seems to have set in motion. Disraeli said 'the impossible will happen tomorrow.' Ah, yes, the impossible, as happened. For, seemingly from out the mists of hazy dreamland, the most profoundly serious political document of the century is a real living force and has been submitted to the judgment of civilization, marking a new stage, a new era in the social and political progress of mankind and speeding home from the classic shades of Versailles, that superb leader of men, the head of our nation, now acclaimed as 'Wilson of the world,' comes back to our family hearthstone to render an account of his stewardship.

"Will you not say with me that this covenant founded on the principles of justice and equity and inspired by the highest motives of man, will receive approbation everywhere, where men are free or seeking to be free. Based on the fundamental principle of the golden rule, its successful working out will have proved that sacrifice has not been in vain, for from out of devastated country, ruined homes, the thrudom of militarism, and the savagery of the despot, the world will hearken to the philosophy of Columbus of Washington, of Lincoln and of Wilson, and peering into the distant future we can see a landscape of peaceful, contented, happy homes—a world democracy in its full fruition.

Think waits or moated gate.
Not cities proud with spires and turrets crowned.
Not bays and broad armed ports,

Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-browed baseness waits perfume to pride.
No, no, it's men, high-minded men,

As hoarse excel cold rocks
And brambles rude.
Men, whom their duties know
And who know their rights,
And knowing their rights dare maintain.

Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan

Very Rev. Joseph P. Copping, P.R., state chaplain of the K. of C. was to respond to the toast, "The Church" but was unavoidably detained. At the 11th hour, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan was pressed into service, and the popular chaplain of the K. of C. responded to the toast with a wealth of lessons, profitable and edifying to the assembly. He said that the progress, the record of achievement of the knights, was attributable to the fact that it was built on a firm foundation, for God and country, and because of that he said "twice endure. Occasions like these, he said, show the strength, the intelligence and the force of the knights and in these days when the Bolsheviks, when the socialist, the anarchist, the "League of North Dakota" and all the other isms that strike at the very bedrock of our democracy, the mission of the K. of C. is plain, to combat the evil influences that would destroy all that is great in this broad and fair land. He was enthusiastically applauded, as he sat down.

Hon. Louis Watson

Miss Katherine V. Hennessey was heard to splendid advantage in song numbers and she was obliged to respond to an encore. Hon. Louis Watson of Boston, master of the Massachusetts district, responded to the toast, "The Fourth Degree," but because of the short space of time given him, in order that he might get his train back to the Hub, he was obliged to be very brief, much to the disappointment of his audience. He took occasion to extend his personal congratulations to the members of Bishop Delaney assembly for their progressive and up-to-the-minute methods and hoped that their future activities would continue as they had in the past.

Sir Knight Donovan

Andrew A. McCarthy was heard in two song numbers, one the favorite "When the Boys Come Home," bringing much applause. Sir Knight John J. Donovan of Lawrence, responded to the toast "The Knights and Re-Construction" and he proved to be one of the most delightful after-dinner speakers heard here in a long time. His wit was positively irresistible, and his story about Serg. Larkin and Sergeant McNulty applied to the uneasiness he felt as a speaker was appreciated very much. He said that when he was in the fifth grade in school, the class in geography was taught that Lowell was a place where annually Lawrence high beat them in a football game. Lowell high had taken football out of its sporting calendar and hence we hear little about Lowell in Lawrence now. This elicited a laugh. Re-Construction, he said, is a broad subject, a subject which he feared to approach because of its tremendous possibilities. Why, things move so swiftly these days that when Monday comes you never know what is going to happen the following Saturday night. Only the other day a young man in Lawrence, he said, who never got beyond the fifth grade, started the world by launching the teeny, weeny Bolsheviks idea on an unsuspecting public. We need a new kind of construction, he said, and we must put away much of the old styles. We must eliminate the slims from our great cities, don't need societies for truth, and must look with suspicion on clarity "scrimped and leed." He gave a fine little talk on the reconstruction and his jokes and freshest, this good humor brought down the house.

Hon. Chas. S. O'Connor

"Catholic Knighthood" was the subject assigned to Hon. Charles S. O'Connor of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts legislature. Mr. O'Connor's address was easily the gem of the evening, a remarkable oration, delving into history, proving his case with historical fact and giving expression to the finest sentiments of true Americanism, phrased in eloquent language, one has ever been privileged to hear. I assume, he said, that most of you are Irishmen, or the sons or daughters of Irishmen, and since today Ireland's case seems to be before the bar of public sentiment looking for some measure of self-government. We all should feel a compelling interest in her hopes and in her aspirations. Ireland, poor, persecuted, harassed Ireland, with her verdant hills, her smiling lakes where fairies we are told dance in the moonlight, Ireland the mother of chivalry, God-fearing men and women, true to Holy Mother church, and the loved ideals of purity and honesty. Yet he said were Ireland a nation tonight, and strong and powerful enough to wage war on this country, the sons of the Gael in this country would wade knee-deep in Irish blood to defend the Stars and Stripes.

The Knights of Columbus, in its sublime mission, so co-related to the teachings of holy mother church, are just as sorely needed in these days as in the fabled days of centuries ago when knighthood was in flower. It was Columbus who discovered this western world, Catholic mariners and explorers that discovered her rivers and her lakes, Catholic heroes whose names have shone with a lustre on history's pages, from Yorktown to Verapaz, from New Orleans to Vera Cruz, and from the fields of Flanders across the fair soil of unhappy France. Mr. O'Connor's address was of the gripping kind that holds an audience spellbound, and when he closed with an apostrophe "to God, to country and victory" he was given an ovation.

Lieut. Paul Hines

There were delightful songs by M. Frances Tighe, and the last special of the evening was Lieut. Paul Hines of Company A, 102nd Infantry Division, who was recently decorated with a Distinguished Service Cross by Gen. Edwards on the Boston common. Lieut. Hines related numerous thrilling experiences of himself and his men during the first months of the United States army was on that proved especially interesting. Lowell people was the fact that unit was the one that relieved members of Company M of the 10th at Chemin des Dames.

The lieutenant, a modest young man, spoke entirely impersonal and thought four times, one could not get it to say a word as to his exploits. He gave some happy incidents of army life, but not many, because war is a serious business he said.

The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" was the concluding number. Rev. Francis J. Mullin, faithful friend of the assembly, was unable to be present because of a severe cold.

The committee in charge were: Dinner committee: Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, F. C., chairman; Knight Edward F. Saunders; Knight John F. Golden, Sir Knight Hon. James B. Casey, Sir Knight John J. Lang, Sir Knight John E. Hines, Sir Knight Thomas R. Delaney, F. N., Knight Andrew Molloy, F. C., Knight William H. Gallagher, F. C., treasurer; Sir Knight Arthur J. O'N. secretary.

An Announcement to You!

You can believe this or not, just as you please.

We are not going to try to hoodwink you with clever words, or urge you to do something that is not good for you. What we are going to do is try to show you how to get more for the dollar you spend. We are going to make a few straightforward statements about coke.

"Oh!" say you, "I don't want to have anything to do with coke—it burns out your grate."

Right off we will nail that statement by saying that if Lowell Coke burns out your grate, we will buy you a new grate. So that settles that.

For many years we have been selling thousands and thousands and thousands of tons of Lowell Coke. Intelligent people have been buying it year after year. Now, either they are wrong in doing so or, they are right; either they are unwise or they know something.

First of all, these users of Lowell Coke are the real people of Lowell and surrounding towns. By that we mean the people who are the most thrifty, the people who spend their money wisely, without flourish; people who educate their children, save money, look after their own heating arrangements, and do it all on a moderate income. These people use Lowell Coke year in and year out—for all purposes.

There must be a reason. It isn't that they haven't the money to buy anything else. They have. People who do not use Lowell Coke may say that the reason is that these people don't know any better. The fact of the matter is that the people who do not use Lowell Coke are the ones who do not know any better.

Here's why:

Lowell Coke is better than coal.

We repeat:

LOWELL COKE IS BETTER THAN COAL.

Not for a minute will we admit that it is as good as coal. It is BETTER than coal. You need not take our word for it; we are going to prove it to you. You are to be the judge. From time to time we shall print, in the newspapers of Lowell, advertisements telling in detail just what has been learned by all sorts of people in all sorts of tests—analysis of Lowell Coke from chemists and testimonials of housekeepers and people you know.

Lowell Coke is better than coal because it gives more heat than coal. How many times in coal have you found stone, rock, granite, slate or dirt? You will never find any of those things in Lowell Coke.

When you buy Lowell Coke you are buying heat—that's all.

Do you know what it is that burns in coal? It is carbon that burns, and poisonous gases. Well, Lowell Coke is merely coal with the gases taken out. What is left is carbon, the thing in coal that gives you heat. Coke is carbon. Remember that. The gases are of absolutely no value to you. You might say that Lowell Coke is sterilized coal.

You cannot measure heat by pounds or inches; you measure it by "units." If a person got an absolutely square deal, he would not buy a ton of this or a ton of that; he would buy a certain number of "heat units."

By actual analysis by disinterested chemists, Lowell Coke showed more heat units per pound than coal.

That proves that there is more heat in Lowell Coke than there is in the same quantity of good coal.

Lowell Coke does not smoulder. It burns and burns until it is reduced to a little ash. With coal you have a lot of unburned lumps, stones, clinkers. There is much less ash from Lowell Coke, therefore it is not so much bother. Lowell Coke is cleaner than coal. It does not fill your house with dust. It is lighter and easier to handle. Bringing up a hod of Lowell Coke is an easy job.

Lowell Coke will hold the fire all through the night.

Lowell Coke, with its even, steady heat, is best for all sorts of cooking—roasting, baking, broiling. Coal either flames or smoulders.

It is easy to start a fire with Lowell Coke.

All we take out of the high grade coal from which we make Lowell Coke are things that are useless for cooking or heating. Lowell Coke has all the good-qualities of coal and none of the bad. There is no smoke from Lowell Coke.

Lowell Coke comes in three sizes—Fine, Medium and Coarse.

Therefore:

To sum up, Lowell Coke is better, for all purposes, than coal. We have plenty of it. We can assure you that whenever you want it during the coming year we have plenty for you. We can see no increase to come in the price of Lowell Coke. It is here when you want it, now, next month or next winter. It would not be unwise, however, to enter your order for next winter's supply now.

We insist that Lowell Coke is the most satisfactory fuel you can buy. If we have not convinced you already, we are here in Lowell ready to give you further proof.

Irish Convention Demands President Wilson Uphold Ireland

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—A resolution presented by Cardinal Gibbons regarding the peace conference to apply to Ireland the doctrine of national self-determination, and a Declaration of Principles demanding that if any league of nations be created, all features which may infringe on the traditional American policy, including

PURE TONIC VALUE

in Deptron, to the Last Particle of the Medicine

The new and real iron tonic, Deptron, is prepared in a highly concentrated form of chocolate-coated pills, easy to take, easy to carry about with you; no water, no alcohol, no opiate.

Deptron is the essence of economy, the acme of efficiency. It is readily assimilated, acts promptly and powerfully upon the blood and nerves, corrects all run-down conditions, creates an appetite, gives stomach comfort and powerful digestion. It wards off impending illness, bridges over the danger spots, and increases power of resisting disease.

Do not put off treatment in these times so perilous to health, but get Deptron and begin to take it today, two after each meal.

You'll not regret being particular to get Deptron, and no other. Like many others, you will be surprised at its promptness in building you up. Adv.

the Monroe Doctrine, shall be eliminated, were adopted unanimously yesterday at the closing session of the convention of the Irish race in America.

The declaration says a state of war exists between England and Ireland "which, in the interests of the peace of the world, the peace conference cannot ignore."

It demands that President Wilson place before the peace conference, and support, Ireland's right to self-determination. Three meetings, attended by fully 15,000 representatives of the Irish race chose a committee of 24, including Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, to present this resolution and declaration to President Wilson, and later to appear at the peace conference and demand Irish freedom and the right of self-determination.

Cardinal O'Connell Retires Absence

Cardinal O'Connell sent the following letter of regret from Washington, after since coming to Washington. I have been busy almost to exhaustion. I regret exceedingly that circumstances and further duties here will prevent my being present at the convention at Philadelphia. The loss will be all mine for I wanted with all my heart to meet and greet the representatives of our great Celtic race on that occasion. "But, after all, what I stand for, what my sentiments are regarding the duty of us all in voicing the cause of sacred liberty for Ireland is well known to all those present, in fact to all the world. Only the truth is eternal and even in the eternal waits, it ultimately prevails."

"Right and liberty for Ireland shall prevail and we must work on tirelessly, patiently, righteously, faithfully until falsehood and injustice are vanquished. Salute for me all the dear clergy and sons and daughters of the Gael with a fervent Irish God bless you."

Ex-Mayor James M. Curley of Boston spoke at the evening main meeting and roused his auditors to repeated cheers by his eloquent presentation of Ireland's case. He said that it was the idealism of America that won the war and that if the United States ever held the opportunity to pay Ireland for our debt to her, the present was the appropriate time.

In support of the movement to bring freedom to Ireland the convention pledged to raise within six months $1,000,000, but before Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the New York supreme court, chairman of the convention, completed the calling of a list of states and cities, more than $1,250,000 had been pledged to the cause.

Delegates from many states, representing a large number of Irish organizations, crowded the Academy of Music when Cardinal Gibbons arose at the afternoon session and in a few words presented the resolution calling for the right of Ireland to select its form of government. Applause swept the crowd as the cardinal slowly read the paper.

The enthusiasm aroused by the cardinal continued as numerous speakers seconded the resolutions. Among those who spoke in support of Ireland's freedom were Rev. Norman Thomas, a Presbyterian minister of New York; Archbishop Messmer, Milwaukee; Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, Philadelphia; James G. Miter, Protestant Episcopal clergyman of Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Mary McWhorter, Chicago, head of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Henry Goddard Leach, New York; Thomas J.

Mathews, Providence, national secretary of the A.O.H., and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, Mo.

The convention rose to its feet and cheered several minutes when Rabbi Krauskopf said that President Wilson's declaration that small nations shall have the right to self-government "will not die down and not even

SIGHT OF FOOD MADE HER SICK

Noise Rapped Her Nerves

Mrs. Elise Pilato, 137 Garban street, Lowell, Mass., certainly went through a hard siege of ill health. Probably the trouble started in her stomach and then spread through the nerve system. She stated, "I had not been able to work for a long while, in fact I was a complete wreck. I was weak and dizzy. I had no appetite and the sight of food actually made me sick at times. When I heard any loud noise it seemed to me as if I would go insane, my nerves were in such an upset condition. I started taking Iron-Lax-Tonic and it has done me so much good that I just can't say anything too strong in favor of it. I am telling all my friends about this wonderful tonic and I hope all people who are sick or ailing will use it. I would spend my last dollar for Iron-Lax-Tonic if I were sick or had any of those things that used to trouble me like dizziness, sickness of the stomach, headaches, and nervousness. And you cannot put it too strong that sick people ought to start taking Iron-Lax-Tonic at once. I feel very grateful for my restored health, and I am now able to work again because I used Iron-Lax-Tonic."

If you feel anything like the way taking the Iron-Lax-Tonic treatment at once. Be sure to remember the exact name when buying the remedy, Iron-Lax-Tonic. Adv.

"Liberty in Air," Cardinal Says

Cardinal Gibbons, who recently celebrated his golden jubilee, commemorated the 50th anniversary of his ordination in the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church, presented the document without a formal speech, asserting that his "advanced years and consequent infirmities" rendered him incapable of making such an effort.

"I hold in my hands," said the cardinal, "a resolution on behalf of Ireland which should appeal to every lover of liberty and justice."

"My friends, there is liberty in the

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They do not injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

in vain. Lloyd George within the last few months has been compelled to assert that Ireland is at present as much opposed to British rule as in the days of Cromwell.

"The industries of Ireland have been destroyed, her trade and commerce wiped out, her population cut in two, her leaders deported and held in English jails without indictment or trial, and yet within the last two months the people with an unanimity never before attained have again declared their utter dissatisfaction with English rule and their determination to be free."

Your Appearance

Depends a good deal upon your teeth. Whether you are employer or employee, you must make the best appearance possible, and the teeth are the main contributors. There is nothing more unsightly than a set of black, dirty, broken down teeth and there is absolutely no excuse for leaving them in that condition as, by new methods, I have proven that all dental work can be done absolutely without pain.

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the Greatest Remedy for Woman's Ills.

New Haven, Conn.—"For two years I suffered with a female weakness, pains in my back and painful periods, and I was so weak and tired that I was not able to do my work. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it gave me great relief. My pains left me and I am now able to do my work and feel fine. You can publish my testimonial and if your Vegetable Compound does others as much good as it has me I will be very much pleased."—Mrs. CHARLES E. MORGAN, 37 Sea Street, New Haven, Conn.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act directly on the female organism.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regains Health After Years of Stomach Trouble

Massachusetts Woman Learns That Right Kind of Tonic Treatment Brings Relief

Good blood is the foundation of health. Once the blood becomes thin and weak the entire body correspondingly loses its tone. The nerves which derive their nourishment directly from the blood are undertaken and refuse to do their work properly. Thin blood and starved nerves combine to cause stomach trouble and until blood and nerves are restored to strength the digestive processes are disturbed and troublesome.

Any person suffering from stomach trouble learns to expect keen distress after a meal. Headaches and dizziness are common symptoms and as restless night follows restless night, the body becomes so run down that the sufferer becomes exhausted on slight effort and breathless when climbing stairs.

All this can be corrected by proper treatment as was learned by Mrs. Margaret Gallagher, of No. 30 Nelson street, North Adams, Mass. Mrs. Gallagher's experience may be profitable to others. She says:

"I have always worked hard, sometimes beyond my strength, and this, I think, caused the stomach trouble which had bothered me for five years. I became very nervous and couldn't sleep. There was a severe pain under the left shoulder. After eating I was in great distress. My stomach felt bloated and I had a queer sensation in my head. At times there was a prickly feeling through my temples and at other times a floating sensation. I became melancholy and wanted to be alone.

"I saw the announcement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a newspaper and procured a box. I felt so much improved after one week's treatment that I continued taking the remedy until my nervousness had entirely disappeared. My stomach has been benefited so much that I can eat without any after distress. The peculiar sensation in my head has also left me and I'm no longer depressed. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those similarly troubled for I have great confidence in their power."

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for the free booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat."

Cheered Along Route

After leaving the pier, the parade passed through the extension of Summer street, in the wholesale district, where the employees lining the sidewalks and the roofs gave the president a noisy welcome. Farther along, at Dewey square, in front of the South station, where the street widens, the first big crowd was encountered and the noise was correspondingly increased. Summer street business houses, in common with those of other sections of the route, made a brave showing of service flags along with the Stars and Stripes and hunting decorations.

Expanding to Meet Public Needs

THE packer is a purveyor of foods. Largely dependent on him are the producer, the retailer and the consumer. The farmer looks to the large packing concern to provide outlets for what he raises. The housewife relies upon the packer for an important part of her daily food supply. Retailers expect prompt service and regular deliveries. Thousands of workmen are given gainful employment.

Of all industrial undertakings none is so closely allied to the comfort and security of the nation.

To meet these responsibilities successfully makes large scale operation imperative. For, in order to buy from the grower whenever he is ready to sell, Armour must have a national market to distribute foods everywhere. And conversely, to make food supplies certain, Armour must be able to buy in many producing centers.

Serving both producers and consumers, it is evident that such a business must be conducted fairly and beneficially to all. In no other way can its existence be justified. In no other way could it have thrived.

But to carry out its uses fully, the responsibilities of the business must be met by the responsibilities of those it serves. In its own interests the public must give big business the opportunity to perform the service which is very properly expected of it.

where Summer street merges into Winter street, there was a great congestion of the crowd eager to get a glimpse of the president. As the head of the parade passed this point at 12:30 the pressure on the guards became so great that the line threatened to break. The guards held firm, however, and with the aid of the police the way was kept open for the presidential cars. At the head of Winter street, entering Tremont, the president got his first view of masses of humanity banded on the common and in front of the State House, where the reviewing stand was placed. Passing the famous "Brimstone corner" and up the steep incline of Park street, the president heard a roar of welcome from thousands.

At the state house where members of the National Woman's party had planned a demonstration, there was hardly a suffrage banner in sight. Several hours before the president reached the spot the police had arrested 22 members of the party after they had failed to obey an order to move on.

Guest of Boston
BOSTON, Feb. 24.—President Wilson was the guest of Boston today. The city was not alone, however, in extending to the chief executive a welcome home from his labors at the peace conference in Paris, for thousands of people from all parts of New England arrived on early trains to swell the throng in the streets through which he passed on his way from Commonwealth pier to his hotel in the Back Bay district.

Big Display of Flags
For the greater part of the crowd, this was the only opportunity to see the president as Mechanics' hall, where he was to deliver his address, seats but 7000 people and all the tickets for the meeting were allotted several days ago. Buildings all along the route of the parade were adorned with flags and hunting and recognition of the international character of the president's recent activities was shown in the frequent display of flags of the nations which were associated with the United States in the war.

Steamer Narrowly Escaped
The great steamer George Washington, upon which the president and his party made the voyage from West, dropped anchor off quarantine shortly after dark last night. The most exciting moments of the trip came on Sunday afternoon when it was suddenly found that the steamer, running through the fog, was headed directly for Thatcher's island, off Cape Ann. It was the destroyer Harding, running ahead as a guardship, which discovered the danger and gave warning. Engines were reversed and the ship was stopped a thousand yards from shore, in deep water.

Escort of 1-Boat Chasers
Outside Boston harbor the George Washington was met by an escort of eight submarine chasers sent from the navy yard here. The ship proceeded to quarantine and the presidential party remained on board overnight. It had previously been arranged that they should be brought up to Commonwealth pier this forenoon, on the coast guard cutter Osceola and that the George Washington should then leave for New York, to land the 2000 troops who returned with the president.

Ident Weather

The storm which has hung over the coast for two days passed off to sea last night and the day opened clear. A shift of the wind to the west had taken the chill out of the air and the streets were dry.

The meeting at Mechanics' hall was set for 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. All the baggage of the presidential party of 45 persons was brought ashore and transferred to a special train which was made ready to start for Washington with the president and his associates at 1:30 p. m.

Sec. Tumulty Greets President
Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, spent the night aboard the George Washington with President Wilson and came ashore today with the presidential party.

FUNERALS

COURSER—The funeral of Paul Courser took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home, 104 Powell st. and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The cortege proceeded to St. Margaret's church, where at 10 o'clock a funeral mass was sung by Rev. Stephen Murray. The body, under the direction of the Franciscan monks, was borne to the cemetery by Miss M. J. McCarthy, Mrs. J. J. McCarthy and Mrs. J. J. McCarthy. There were many beautiful floral tributes and spiritual bouquets. The hearse was George Williams and Amos Florence, were Patrick Curran and Mahon Williams. The burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

of Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

RENAMING SALEM STREET
Several business men and heavy taxpayers of the city attended the hearing held at the board of trade rooms Friday evening on the proposition of renaming Salem street, and in the course of the hearing it was suggested that Salem and Market streets be given one name, preferably Market street and that a request be presented to the city council for the paving for medicine.

HELD INQUEST

Judge Pickman today held an inquest on the death of Helen S. Green, who died at the State Infirmary recently as the result of taking a dose of formaldehyde, which she mistook of the street from Central to Pawtucket and that the thoroughfare be properly lighted. The council will also be asked to put Pawtucket street from Salem to Middlesex in good condition.

Don't Cough Until Weak—

Elderly people and others who suffer from stubborn or chronic coughs that wear down the strength, lower vitality and disturb sleep, will find in Foley's Honey and Tar a most helpful and healing medicine.

The very first doses bring comfort and ease, as in it you get the curative influence of pine tar and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying laxative effect of honey.

Foley's Honey and Tar is recommended also for bronchial and la grippe coughs, hoarseness, tickling throat, and stuffy, wheezy breathing. The wise mother knows it stops croup and it is just what children ought to have for feverish colds, coughs, "snuffles," whooping cough and measles cough. It contains no opiates.

"I was troubled with a cough, and would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and before I had taken it the coughing spells had entirely ceased. I wish to say it can't be beat." R. C. Collins, Barnegat, N. J.

"My daughter had a bad case of chronic cough. We finally gave her Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost immediate for after a few days the trouble entirely disappeared and has not returned." Knudt Lee, Waukegan, Ill.

WHAT ADS. DO YOU REMEMBER?

The value of an ad lies in making its message so forceful and its appeal so attractive that the reader voluntarily or involuntarily has the ad "stick in his memory."

If you can design an ad that "sticks in his memory," he will have the impulse to buy the article advertised as soon as he needs it, or, if the price attached denotes a bargain, he may buy the article and hold it for future use.

Stop and think for a moment. Can you remember the ads you read in the street car when you came to work this morning? Did you, in fact, read any of them? Do you not in reality rather go under the impression that those ads are changed only once in about three months and you do not have to "keep up with them?" Granted that you did look up over the level of your head and read them, can you remember what they advertised? Can you remember what argument was advanced that you should buy it?

This is a test you may have never before been invited to make. Advertising in the Sun involves no such test as this. For the most part the paper itself, the advertiser and the reader recognize that Sun ads, if they are successful ads, should be productive of profitable results within 24 hours after the paper puts the ad in the reader's hand. ### WILSON IN BOSTON

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, following short introductory and felicitous addresses by Gov. Coolidge and Mayor Peters, President Wilson started to tell the 7000 persons gathered in Mechanics hall, something of his experiences in France.

Probably, at some time or other, each one of these 7000 persons has wondered to himself, "What can this League of Nations do for us Americans?" In some part at least, it is expected that this afternoon, the privileged 7000 received assuring information on this subject. Boston, this afternoon, or at least 7000 of her citizens, are envious of all the United States.

Germany and her vassal nations were the problem that first confronted the men at the peace table. Promptly taking its cue from the shrewd and unrelenting Puch, the peace council delegates effectively dealt with the immediate problem as concerns Germany. The League of Nations became the next and most pressing problem.

Boston has always claimed she had great responsibility and a great burden in representing the intellectual side of our nation. It is Boston today that enjoys the privilege of hearing President Wilson first, after his return to America. No Boston paper has been openly hostile to the League of Nations plan. Some Boston papers, although expressing the views of men and interests hostile to the president and his administration, have at all times recently, mentioned his name with respect and courtesy.

It was not to the foreign relations committee of congress or close personal friends on this side, to whom President Wilson addressed his first report of what was in prospect overseas. In Europe, he talked to the masses, of whom the fortunate 7000 in Mechanics hall this afternoon happen to be representatives.

Boston is the unofficial capital of New England. In honoring Boston by making it the port of his disembarkation, the president further honors New England by telling it first of what his visit to France has accomplished. For over a hundred years New England has been vigorously loyal to the national government. The needs of the hour demand that the national government be a participant in forming the League of Nations. President Wilson certainly has a right to expect New England will have as it has for the last hundred years, stand squarely behind the government in the things it intends to accomplish.

Old Victor Berger, shodder his German tears in the Chicago court room as Judge Ladd's jawed over his hour-long socialist dissertation, presents a contemptible sight. It is the crocodile who is reputed to weep after gulping down its victim. Berger was ready for his victim, but his tears have come after the victim's defeat.

Boston started using her $ cent metal "tokens" Saturday morning. They broken another burden supplementing what the established burdens of H.C.L. involve. Certain canny Bostonians—for a city of culture is not always a city of complete honesty—have been dropping pieces of paste board in the ticket boxes and this is to be stopped. Next, watch out for a story of counterfeit "tokens" being put in circulation.

GO FARMING? HUH!

It is interesting, in the line of constructive work and may in the long run, be productive of some slight improvement in New England's agricultural situation but whenever we discuss this back-to-the-farm movement for returning soldiers and sailors—let us try to invariably be honest about our facts.

As regards a decline in farming in New England and in this particular part of Massachusetts, every observant man and woman ought to be able to readily give the two paramount reasons for the decline. The first is, that earning one's living from the land, above all things means very hard work and many hours of hard work a day. The "basic 8 hour day" has no relation to something which cautions to the whims of Mother Nature as farming does, and never will have.

The other thing that creates an aversion to farming is its necessary isolation. As years progress, the desire of mankind to be gregarious seems to increase. It is lonesome to work alone in a field or in a wood lot. Ask those who have experienced it. "Swapping day's work" in country life while a good arrangement, is not always equitable and certain.

The French have solved the problem of making farm life more intimate by clustering their little farm houses together. The men go out to their small farms a short distance away each morning, returning in the evening. New England is probably not ready to adapt itself to that kind of agricultural life.

So to be entirely honest in this business of sending the fighter to earn his living on the land, it is a duty to him and to the community from whence he comes, as well as to the land itself, that we be absolutely certain he knows what country life involves and that, if he recognizes its hard work and isolation, he is prepared and willing to take it on.

THE MOTHER OF QUENTIN

The villagers of a little town in northern France, for the past few days, not wholly given up selfishly to their own war sorrows, have been watching with compassion and pity in their hearts—men, women and little children—the sight of an elderly woman known to them as "Madame Roosevelt." Daily she visits the cemetery where the shattered body of her youngest son, Quentin, is buried.

She has been bereft of husband and one son within a year. The war of the Huns was the contributing cause of death in both cases.

"The grave is being carefully tended by inhabitants of the locality," the cable reports say. Dying on fields of honor, the French peasants have made the places where American dead find rest, also fields of honor.

The visit of this poor woman again reminds the French that the great and well known families in America offered the allies the best they had—their young men. It does not come any easier for "Madame Roosevelt" in visiting her son's grave to recall that he was one more young American to help pay the ancient debt to France. Sometimes mother love has to exclude such thoughts.

But France will know. She will know that as the nobility of France contributed Marquis de Lafayette to help the American colonies, in later years American nobility, the mothers, contributed such men as Quentin Roosevelt and a thousand others, to fight oppression.

APPEAL FOR IRELAND

That was certainly a strong appeal sent out from Philadelphia in behalf of Ireland. It is too bad for England as well as for Ireland, which has been the chief sufferer, that this burning question was not settled long ago.

The democracy of England has been willing to settle it ever since Gladstone's day, but the aristocracy said "no." In 1911, the veto power of the peers was taken away, but they managed to have Sir Edward Carson carry out their wishes in blocking a settlement of the Irish question.

If the present system of aristocracy in Britain were swept away, the opposition to granting Ireland justice would also disappear. As proof of this stands the home rule law passed by the commons, signed by the king, and held up through the opposition of the aristocracy as represented by Sir Edward Carson.

The aristocracy opposes the people of England and Scotland as well as those of Ireland. Why not send the titled nobility after the Hohenzollerns?

We will all be sorry for that Marlboro soldier, now a patient at the base hospital, Camp Devens, who is reported to be turning blue by slow degrees. His malady is reminiscent of that fellow who used to troupe with Barnum's side show and whose entire face and body were of a dark blue color. He was an unhappy and dejected looking specimen and the more so when he attempted to sell his photographs at a dime each. The poor Marlboro chap has indeed been dealt a hard blow by war.

The late Patrick Henry may have been, as one contemporary paragrapher intimates, eloquent, patriotic and narrow in his views, but many of us take issue on the accusation of narrowness. A man strong enough to say, "Give me liberty or give me death," inspires us all as being the kind of a man who, when taking a stand for the right, wants the entire porker or nothing. As for intimating that if he were alive today he would join Borah in declining to attend President Wilson's Tuesday evening dinner, that is a very wicked slander to bring against a dead patriot.

Most of us will regard it as being extremely careful on the part of the first woman who ever had a chance to address a German legislative body, Frau Marie Juchacz, that in starting her address she conciliated the opponents of women suffrage by saying, "Gentlemen and Ladies."

Having sternly decided and announced that as commissioners and head of the city's present administration they will not stand for appropriations whose adoption would mean a $30 tax rate this year, let our five commissioners who start the year so business-like, re-consecrate themselves to the task of seeing how far toward getting a hundred cents worth of value for each dollar spent by the city, they can go.

No one seems to have taken any particular notice of Senator Vardaman's attacks on the League of Nations plan. Everyone seems to have recognized that it was his way of attacking the president again. His hailwack, Mississippi, repudiated Vardaman last fall and the voters intimated they had tolerated both his long hair and his "standing in the way of the procession" long enough.

Good ole river Kennebec! Many times has her winter product cooled the refreshing summer glass of lemonade and summer glass of other things. But at the present time, other honors should be accorded good ole Kennebec. Her ice cutting industry is at present furnishing work for 1000 returned Maine soldiers.

Saco, Me., reports one of her reliable citizens has seen a sure enough bluebird and, appropriately enough, he was roosting over near a sure enough pussy willow. How much more cheerful and how much more wholesome is this news from Saco than the stuff recently sent over the wire in the guise of being a report on the Hall murder trial.

When Maximilian Harden publicly asserts that the German people, even now, see no crime in their Fatherland's having started the great war, it is a strong reminder of the obstinate small boy on the ground who, in spite of receiving a severe punnelling, has not arrived at the point in his distress where he has sense to cry "Nuff."

How Gray's Syrup Breaks Your Cough

In breaking up your cough and correcting the accompanying ailments, you will find that Gray's Syrup brings prompt relief in three distinct ways.

First,—immediately on taking Gray's Syrup the dry, inflammatory condition of the throat is eased. Swallowing becomes less difficult and the throat performs its natural functions in comfort.

Second,—no matter how tight and dry a cough is, Gray's Syrup loosens it up. The cough rapidly diminishes under consistent treatment and does not again become distressing enough to continue to strain the throat and lung muscles.

Third,—the phlegm which collects on the affected parts and clogs the tubes is quickly raised. The healing and soothing influence of Gray's Syrup coming into direct contact with the affected parts brings them back to their normal condition.

LAKESIDE AVENUE FIRE

An alarm from box 6 at 9 o'clock Friday evening summoned a portion of the fire department to a house in Lakeside avenue near the corner of Bridge street for a slight blaze in the cellar. The fire was discovered by Patrolman Maroney and Rulter, and while the former pulled in the alarm the latter assisted in taking down half a dozen children from a piazza on the second story of the house. The damage was slight.

For the last three days of the week Theda Bara in "The Light" will be the big feature. Some women are happy when they and one man to love them, others are not contented and long for several. Theda Bara, the Sarah Bernhardt of the screen, has so many lovers in her new super-production, and she cannot keep count of them. And in the end she learns to love their multiplicity. This photograph tells a thrilling story of a woman of Paris who can love a score of men simultaneously and can dance and sing. Miss Theda Bara is as captivating and interesting as even will be seen in "The Girl With No Regrets." This is a wonderful entertaining picture story in which the star is shown in one of her most amusing and best parts. The photograph and scenic effects are unusually good, and the story one of the kind that holds interest from beginning to end.

During the last three days of the week a brand new Vitaphone two-part comedy, the latest issue of the Universal Weekly and the most recent Chester Conely will be shown. These alone are well worth the price of admission. Miss Calvert has been engaged for a return engagement for the week, during the last three days of the week one of these highly amusing Mutt and Jeff Christie comedies will be presented and also a new Universal Weekly.

Watch for some of the biggest and best photoplay productions of the year. They are booked for first release at this theatre.

ASK GRAN'MA, SHE KNOWS!

Our grandmothers know that millions of people, children and adults, have worms, either in stomach or bowels. This trouble is just as frequent now as it ever was, but people don't know it. Ask Grandma—she knows!

A Roxbury, Mass., grandmother writes to Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me., saying: "I have always used your Dr. True's Elix for my children and they are all healthy and well today."

"I put great faith in your medicine and one of my children was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of True's Elix, and so excited I gave her half of the bottle at once and at night I gave her the other half. I thought it's either kill or cure for the doctor says she is dying anyway, but she did not die. She went to sleep, the first sleep for a week, and the next morning she passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead but he ran out pretty quick as she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using the Elix."

BOYLE BEATS PARKER

Lowell Boxer Decisively Defeats Highly Touted Boston Boy in Fast Bout

Fighting like a champion over the entire route, Phinney Boyle of Lowell completely outclassed the highly touted Charlie Parker of Boston and won the decision in a whirlwind 12-round bout at Lawrence Saturday afternoon, before one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds that ever assembled in the Lawrence Opera House.

The scenes enacted at the bout beggar description. They can only be compared with those attending a big world's series ball game. Rooters came from near and far and few depended on their vocal organs to show their sentiments. They were armed with fish horns, cow bells, auto horns, etc., and many also had big rolls of the "long green," which they took the battle off with the least provocation.

While the bout itself is worthy of great space and commendation, the "side issues" were so unique that they deserve "favorable mention."

Followers of Parker came over the road in conspicuously labelled auto trucks, while Lowell friends of Boyle also had autos chartered for the occasion. Others came from Manchester, Nashua, Haverhill, and various other places for the bout was looked upon as one of the most important to be decided in this vicinity for many years. After a good preliminary card, Ben Keaveney introduced the main bout principals and as each bowed in recognition the theatre rocked with enthusiasm. The boys weighed in under the stipulated 130 pounds. Parker objected to the regular club referee and after considerable discussion Jerry Moore of Boston was agreed upon.

Boyle was in perfect condition and he went at his man from the tap of the bell and he never slowed up until after the final going. He showed a marvellous repertoire, possessing lightning like speed, wonderful foot work, great hitting abilities, was perfect on distance and remained cool throughout. Rarely has he put up such a whirlwind battle. He fought with a determination to win and he had absolutely no weakness. He kept away from the ropes during the entire 12 rounds and several times had Parker in distress, but he never lost his head. He too had advantage of every opportunity but boxed cautiously at all times.

The referee, in which Boyle scored with a stiff left jab and a right cross completely bewildered the Boston boy. Parker had never before been humiliated so. He had a clean state when he entered the ring, and seemed to imagine that he could not be beaten. He soon realized that he had met his superior in Boyle, for the Lowell lad had him at sea and made him miss repeatedly.

In only one round, the third, did Parker have a pronounced advantage. Here he got in several telling rights, but Boyle demonstrated right at this point that he had a clean state when he entered the ring, and seemed to imagine that he could not be beaten. He soon realized that he had met his superior in Boyle, for the Lowell lad had him at sea and made him miss repeatedly.

As the bout progressed the Parker men realized that their "hope" was beaten and they tried to "hedge," but they failed to succeed. Their only chance was to have Parker send over a K. O. They pleaded with Parker to produce the sleep producer, and while the Boston lad worked desperately to meet their request, Boyle was too shifty and clever to allow a laymaker to land.

The final round of the encounter was one that will not be forgotten by those present. Boyle, realizing that he had the bout won, worked like a machine, while Parker, desperate to meet their request, was wild and furious. The men were travelling at a hurricane pace, with Boyle on the long end, when the great battle terminated. Referee Moore pointed to Boyle and the Lowell boy left the ring amid a tremendous ovation.

It was a great "come back" for Boyle and while he was elated over the result, he said that he was particularly gratified to hear that his friends made such a "clean up." He also paid a high tribute to Police Officer Jack Leahy and the other men who helped him prepare and train for the bout.

Many of the Lowell fans who saw Phinney Boyle defeat Charlie Parker at Lawrence Saturday afternoon "stayed over" and took in the Lowell-Lawrence polo game there in the evening, and they had the pleasure of witnessing another Lowell triumph for Capt. Harkins' crew trimmed the Hardy lad out by the score of 5 to 2. It was some game, too. One that forced both clubs to go the limit all the way. Both teams had played in the afternoon. Lowell here with New Bedford, and Lawrence at home with Worcester. Both had one game on the right side of the slate, and inspired by the afternoon's victories, the two teams went into the once determined to win. But the Lawrence club, like Charlie Parker, was up against superior talent and the Harkins club made it a real "Lowell day" in Lawrence's romping home a winner.

Harkins started for Lowell, while Quigley and Pence excelled for the down river outfit. One of the Lawrence goals was a "duke," but the referee didn't see it and hence was justified in calling it a score. It came when Quigley latched the ball through a hole in the side of the cage. Pence knew it did not pass by him and while he objected strenuously, the referee, who was at the other end of the ball, gave the only decision possible. However, the case should be repaired as it is unjust to allow it to remain in its present condition.

Providence set the pace in the league last week, by winning four games and dropping one. Lowell won three and lost two. Salem and Worcester broke even. Lawrence won two and lost three, and New Bedford won one and lost four.

On Friday night Worcester with Big Lee Taylor on the rush line will play Lowell at the Crescent rink.

The schedule for the week follows:

Saturday: Lawrence at Lowell, Worcester at Providence, Salem at New Bedford.
Friday: Worcester at Lowell, Providence at New Bedford.
Saturday: Lowell at Providence, Salem at Lawrence, New Bedford at Worcester.

AFTERNOON GAME
Lowell won from New Bedford in the afternoon before a good sized crowd at the Crescent rink by the score of 5 to 2. The entire Lowell team played at top form, with Hart, Harkins and Griffith doing some splendid passing and driving in the offence and Asquith and Pence turning in a good performance on the defence.

Lincoln, G. Hart and Conley excelled for the visitors, while "Wild" Charley Farrell entertained as usual with his "healthy" swinging. The score:

LOWELL	NEW BEDFORD
Hart, 1r	Lincoln
Harkins, 2r	Farrell
Griffith, c	Farrell
Asquith, b	Morrison
Pence, g	Conley

Won by Lowell 5, New Bedford 2. Caged by: Time 1.40.

New Bedford: Lincoln 1.00, Farrell 1.00, Farrell 1.00, Morrison 1.00, Conley 1.00.

POLO NOTES
Lowell observed the holiday in a very auspicious manner. Beating New Bedford and Lawrence in one day is sufficient cause for celebrating.

Lawrence will play here tomorrow night. The down river club is for revenge after the beating handed to them Saturday night and a battle royal is expected.

Providence set the pace in the league last week, by winning four games and dropping one. Lowell won three and lost two. Salem and Worcester broke even. Lawrence won two and lost three, and New Bedford won one and lost four.

SHUBERT AND DE FOE TO MEET

The Crescent A.A. will reopen on Thursday night, with Al Shubert, the New Bedford "beast," and Billy De Foe of St. Paul in the main event of nine rounds. Both of these boys are noted performers and indications point to a very fast bout.

Shubert recently quit the ranks of the bantamweights. For four years he held the undisputed New England championship and always has been one of the "big five" in the bantam ranks. He entered the army to fight for his country and after several months' service was discharged just before Christmas as a heavier boy, no longer able to make the bantamweight limit. So he entered the ranks of the featherweights. He hopes to work his way up the scale and get a crack at Johnny Kilbane.

De Foe, who has been in the naval reserve at Newport, has a great record. He has stopped fighting badly, who has been seen here, and has trimmed Chick Hayes decisively. There is scarcely a featherweight of note whom he has not met and in the last year or so he has been losing the near-lightweights.

BOSTON COLLEGE TEAM DEFEATS LOWELL

The Boston College high track team defeated Lowell high's track athletes Saturday night at the annex, 15 to 23. Either the girls' officers party on Friday evening was too much for the team, or it was in the grip of a mid-season slump. There was one exception, however, Pat Mullane, who nobbed up in almost every event and took two firsts and a second as his share of the night's glory. He just about boycotted Lowell's honors, too, although Warren Mansur tied for first in the high jump and finished second in the short dash and "three hundred."

Mullane's work, indeed, stunned him a runner of great strength and recuperative powers. His one trial heat in the 30-yard dash didn't tire him any, but he started his real work in the "thousand," which he won after a grueling race with Crane of Boston. With about a half hour's rest Mullane was back on the track when the 500-yard run was called and finished strong back of Capt. McIntyre of Boston, the winner. Scarcely ten minutes after the finish of this race he drew the pole in the 800-yard run, and when on the seventh lap McIntyre and Crane of Boston slipped to the track, the Lowell boy took opportunity, drew the horns, jumped over the visiting pair and held his advantage to the finish. It was a hard lead to hold, for McIntyre was full of fight and speed right up to the worsted, and undoubtedly would have captured the event if he had not tangled with his team-mate, Crane, Mullane's first and only slip.

The final of the 20-yard dash found Mansur and Lawler of Lowell paired against Carroll and Langgan of Boston College high. Carroll showed the Lowell boy took opportunity, drew the horns, jumped over the visiting pair and held his advantage to the finish. It was a hard lead to hold, for McIntyre was full of fight and speed right up to the worsted, and undoubtedly would have captured the event if he had not tangled with his team-mate, Crane, Mullane's first and only slip.

Miss Cummo, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown bordered with silver thread and a court train of silver cloth. Her veil was of rose point lace with a coronet of orange blossoms. Rev. William P. English, Jr., was the officiating clergyman.

A niece, Miss Katherine Cummo, who is engaged to Major Morris Hadley, a son of President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale university, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of mauve chiffon with a light blue sash and a hat of mauve georgette crepe trimmed with pink roses and a blue streamer.

Dittman, a brother of the bridegroom, both of New York; John Wood Blodgett and John Wood Blodgett, Jr., of Prides Crossing, Mass., brother-in-law and nephew of the bride; Major Frederic R. Clark, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Col. Howard Caswell Smith and H. Laffey Pitkin of New York, and Major Henry H. Armistead of Washington, D. C.

Dr. Dittman is a grandson of the late Henry Dittman and of the late James Stewart, both of Philadelphia. He was graduated from Yale in 1896 and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1900. He spent several years in medical scientific research work in this country and at universities in Europe and received the degrees of M. A. and Ph. D. from Columbia university. He is assistant attending physician at St. Luke's hospital and a trustee of the Safety Institute of America. ## IRISH CONVENTION

The voice of the American colonies, England was compelled less than a century and a half ago to recognize the independence of the colonies, and within the last year the efforts of our country saved England and her allies from total defeat at the hands of the Central Powers.

"The land to which England was thus compelled to do justice has just saved England in her hour of need. Let England now realize that justice to Ireland which she has so long denied, with grievous loss to Ireland, but also with great loss to herself, will now remove from her path the bitterest hostility which she has to encounter all over the world and will convince mankind in general of the sincerity of her declarations when she says that she believes in liberty and justice for others as well as for herself.

"Finally, we urge this claim that peace and order may be brought out of the chaos with which the whole world now seems to be threatened. In this great hour, when governments are being re-formed and when peoples long oppressed by tyranny are emerging again into the sunlight of liberty, let there be sincerity and unselfishness upon the part of those who are controlling the peace conference, to the end that the mistakes of the congress of Vienna may be avoided and a peace made that will be lasting and permanent, because it will be just and right.

"Upon the shoulders of our president and congress rests in the last analysis the responsibility of the peace that shall be made. We urge them to act in accordance with the doctrine laid down in our belief when we entered the war and in accordance with the resolution recently adopted, almost unanimously, by the foreign affairs

WHAT JEWISH WELFARE BOARD IS DOING

A change from the study of agriculture to that of business methods and organizations, has been made by aviators at Kelly Field, Texas, who are awaiting discharge from military to civilian life. The Jewish welfare board of Camp Travis, which originated and is successfully conducted at Camp Travis, Agricultural school, has arranged with the co-operation of the San Antonio chamber of commerce, an intensive business course. Lectures are given on business organization, salesmanship, finance, trade prospects and business reconstruction, and after each lecture the men are given an opportunity to consult with representatives of the United States employment bureau, concerning their own careers. Four hundred soldiers registered for the course on the opening night.

Matzoths for Jewish Soldiers

Mortimore L. Seufft, chairman of the Jewish welfare board's finance committee, who is now in France, has authorized the purchase of 100,000 pounds of matzoths for use by Jewish members of the American Expeditionary Forces and Army of Occupation, during Passover week, beginning April 1st. The matzoths will be especially baked at the Jewish consistory here. Several thousand pounds will be placed aboard transports leaving France during the holiday week.

Soldiers Thank Their Hostess

Mrs. Max Hollander, prominent New York clubwoman, prizes above all of her other possessions a wrist watch and bracelet—the gift of two hundred grateful boys in uniform. Mrs. Hollander is hostess at dances given twice a week by the New York section council of Jewish Women, for the Jewish welfare board, for the men in uniform. A few days ago, the boys gathered together contributions, ranging from one cent to one dollar, from those who had enjoyed the dances, and presented Mrs. Hollander with the watch bracelet in token of their gratitude.

Lifting the Sailor's Load

The number of discharged sailors who leave the Pelham Base naval training station at Pelham Bay, N. Y., carrying a heavy gunny sack on their shoulders is daily decreasing, since the Jewish welfare board representative at this station arranged to forward those bulky bundles for the men. More than a truckload of baggage sacks leaves the Jewish welfare board building at Pelham each day.

Among the other activities of the Jewish welfare board at Pelham are weekly evening lectures, given under the auspices of the New York city department of education.

Following the Flag to Panama

The Jewish welfare board's "follow the flag" policy has found its expression in work among soldiers stationed at fortification in the canal zone. An employment bureau has been organized by the Cristobal branch of the Jewish welfare board, and hundreds of discharged soldiers have secured good positions through it, with the Panama canal and Panama Railroad company. Transports from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and hospital ships returning from France are met here before going through the Panama canal and the Jewish boys on board are made comfortable.

Several hundred men stationed at forts Sherman and Randolph have enjoyed concerts given by Arnold Klasse, Russian pianist under the auspices of the Jewish welfare board.

Nine J. W. B. Centers in France

The Jewish welfare board has announced the opening of nine centers for American soldiers in France. In addition to a club-house in Paris, the Jewish welfare board centers are located at Le Mans, St. Nazaire, Dijon, Alencon, Bordeaux, Tours, Brest and Coblentz. Other club houses are being opened.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT

PROVES FATAL

William Coyle, 14, of 25 Marsh street, died at St. John's hospital at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, as the result of being shot Saturday by his playmate, Frederick J. Smith, 14, of 24 Sargent street.

Smith was taken into custody by the police and released on bail.

The two boys had left their homes early in the morning with an old 22-calibre revolver and some cartridges to go hunting. They went out West Meadow road and, while in the rear of the Lowell General hospital, Smith, who was carrying the weapon, accidentally discharged it, according to his story, the bullet entering Coyle's neck.

The ambulance was summoned, and the injured boy taken to St. John's hospital, where he died at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Smith told the story of the affair to the police, and was first

ANNUAL COLONIAL PARTY

Colonial hall was a bower of beauty Saturday evening, the occasion being the annual dancing party of the Y.M. and Y.W.I.A. The young ladies were dressed in the costumes of long ago, and the large number of khaki-clad boys who were on hand for the occasion gave the affair a pleasing military aspect. A jazz orchestra furnished music, and the merry company tripped the light fantastic until a late hour. To Miss Bessie Drans and Miss Sophie Wollman was due in a large measure the successful outcome of the event, and the following committees also did their share to make the occasion one of the pleasantest of its kind:

Committee on arrangements—Misses Sadie Cohen, Ida Levy, Minnie Marmar and Mildred Stollas. Refreshment committee—Misses Sarah Shapiro, Bessie Borash, Daisy Ginsberg and Minnie Duffin. Reception committee—Misses May LaBovitz, Mildred Cantor, Frances Silverblatt, Ida Friedman and Rose Bronstein. Publicity committee—Miss Bessie Braverman.

TWO ALARMS FIRE

A threatening blaze in the cellar of the four-story tenement block at the corner of Worthen and Market streets, owned by D. Sakellarios, was responsible for the sounding of two alarms from box 12 shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday evening. Fortunately, however, the quick work of the firemen prevented the blaze from making any headway and the fire was confined to the cellar and street floor of the building. As soon as the blaze was discovered the tenants of the house were notified and they all left the building, some of them descending to the ground on the firemen's ladders.

HELD FOR BIG EVERETT HOLDUP

Auditor Among Those Arrested
For Robbery of General
Electric Paymaster

Two Others Taken Into Custody
Today in Connection With
Daring Daylight Holdup

EVERETT, Feb. 24.—Charles S. Whitmore, general auditor for the General Electric Co., was arrested at his home in Madden, today, charged with conspiracy and assault, in connection with the attack on Frank R. Brown, assistant paymaster of the local plant of the company, who was held up on Dec. 29, and robbed of the weekly payroll, amounting to $12,000. Louis Bennett of Boston, familiarly known as "Doc" Bennett, and Charles Mortelli, alias Charles Celeste, also were arrested today in the same connection, a charge of assault being placed against them. Mortelli was arrested at his home in Roxbury and Bennett was found in Cambridge. Four men, previously had been arrested in New York, and are under indictment.

Brown had been to a bank in Everett to draw the weekly payroll for the company's foundry here and was on his way back to the plant with the money in a leather handbag when another machine suddenly drew across the roadway and Brown's driver had to come to a halt. Almost immediately, half a dozen men stepped out and forced Brown to deliver over the bag. Their appearance was so sudden that neither Brown nor a guard who was riding with him, had opportunity to resist. As the highwaymen turned and started away, one of them fired point blank at Brown, seriously wounding him. He recovered at a Boston hospital, after several weeks.

The robbery took place about 9 o'clock in the morning and, although several persons were found who saw the car speeding away, the men were able to escape. Later the police traced the machine, which was found to have been stolen to New York.

SUGGEST POLL TAX OF $8 A YEAR

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Feb. 24.—A poll tax of $8 per year for the next three years is a suggestion which is meeting with much favor among members of the legislative committee on taxation, as a means of raising revenue to meet the expense of the $20,000,000 bill providing that the state shall resume the payment of the $10 per month bounty to its soldiers and sailors in the war.

Furthermore, the committee intends later to report a bill which will make certain the collection of every poll tax, as it feels that it would be poor policy to embark upon a $20,000,000 program without making certain that the revenue will be forthcoming.

Senator Charles L. Gifford of Barnstable, chairman of the ways and means committee, has suggested the bigger poll tax method of raising the necessary funds, and Senator Malcolm E. Nichols, chairman of the committee on taxation, figures that the tax must be as high as $8 in order to yield the required revenue in three years.

According to the 1918 figures, the poll taxes assessed in this state last April totalled 1,654,200, but if the truth be known it is probable that not more than half of these were collected. Making allowance for the additional number who will try to escape payment when the tax is made four times as large, it is evident either that the legislature must provide some better method of collection or increase the amount above the $8 figured by Senator Nichols.

Senator Gifford is not keen for the poll tax method of obtaining money. He believes the commonwealth should devote to its own uses the immense sum collected in the income tax, but last year's legislature made that impossible by providing for a permanent method of distributing that money to the cities and towns. This, according to the state senator, leaves the state confronted with the task of discovering some new source of revenue. Only two sources are available, he says, these being real estate and individuals, and as he feels that real estate is already too heavily burdened, he is compelled to take the view that the additional revenue must be obtained through a tax on the citizen himself.

and the large crowd of devotees of the terpsichorean art present were unanimous in pronouncing the event one of the best ever. ## 4TH DEGREE, K. C. DINNER

Brilliant Event in Memorial Hall Saturday Night—
Good Entertainment

Rarely in the history of the Knights of Columbus has a more brilliant and inspiring event been held in Lowell than the grand patriotic dinner of the 4th degree, K. C. Assembly, Fourth degree Knights of Columbus, held in Memorial hall Saturday evening. Over 100 knights and their ladies were present and the evening was carried out with a high order of efficiency. The address, all things considered, was a masterpiece of eloquence and in its simplicity, gave a charm to the scene. The knights in evening dress, with the red, white and blue sashes of the degree, the ladies in evening gowns made a picture to which visitors referred during the evening. A handsome bust of Washington occupied a prominent place at the head table, while these were placed in abundance about the hall in standards. At the Western street alcove, Dorothy's orchestra, composed of a hedge of trees and potted plants played during the dinner, the diners singing "The We Meet Again," "I Ain't Got Weary Yet," "Smiles," and other catchy songs. At the head table, at the Merrimack street end, were seated, Faithful Navigator Thomas B. Delaney and Mrs. Delaney, Mayor Golden of Woburn and Mrs. Golden, the latter a former Lowell young lady. Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, toastmaster, and Miss Mary M. O'Hara, District Deputy John J. Donovan of Lawrence, District Deputy Charles J. Landers, Grand Knight Robert R. Thomas, Hon. Louis Watson, master of the Massachusetts district, fourth degree, Hon. Charles S. Connor of Boston, Lieut. Paul H. Hines of the 102nd Infantry, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, Rev. James F. Lynch and Rev. Michael C. Gilbride.

The dinner opened at 6.45 o'clock the diners marching into the hall under the direction of Sir Knight John P. Golden. The favors were miniature cherry trees, hats of various types and vintages, little axes, while at the head table, a large cherry tree stood with the inevitable axe lying by its side. The favors made a distinct hit with everybody, particularly the ladies. When the cigars and candy were passed around and everyone was comfortable, Faithful Navigator Delaney, then whom none is more earnest in K. of C. work in these parts, rapped in order and started the after dinner exercises with a happy speech of welcome, bristling with words of welcome to all and expressive of the thanks of the assembly to the committee in charge. The basic principle of the fourth degree he said was lived up to in every respect he said and he craved the indulgence of the assembly for the program of song and story that is to follow. He presented as toastmaster, Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, chairman of the dinner committee, who responded as follows:

Toastmaster John V. Donoghue

"This is a very happy occasion indeed that brings us together in this beautiful hall tonight. Bland in perfect harmony with the significance of Washington's birthday, it is eminently fitting that the Knights of Columbus, the preeminent patriotic fraternal order in the world, should meet in a building built and dedicated in

WHAT GOOD IS WEALTH

If you are in poor health, if almost everything that you eat distresses you, frequent headaches, pains in the stomach, bad taste in the mouth, dark rings under the eyes, etc. The fact is, life is not worth living if you are a chronic sufferer from indigestion and biliousness.

When the stomach is out of order, the liver not working properly, your heart is obliged to do so much extra work, that it causes palpitation, faintness, and if not checked becomes dangerous.

To feel fresh and fit for your daily duties, you must keep your stomach well, your liver active, and the bowels regular; you can get into this healthy condition by taking SEVEN BARKS; as a digestive tonic, and stomach remedy, it has no equal, and 50 years of continuous sale proves its wonderful merit.

Before in their very detail and delineation, which seem to accentuate the patriotic order, loyalty and devotion of a half-million Knights of Columbus. All these things conspire to make this night a really notable one in the annals of the assembly.

"At a time like this 'tis profitable and inspiring to reflect upon the enriching processes of peace the whole world seems to have set in motion. Disraeli said 'The impossible will happen tomorrow.' Ah, yes, the impossible has happened. For, seemingly from out the mists of hazy dreamland, the most profoundly serious political document of the century is a real living force and has been submitted to the judgment of civilization, marking a new stage, a new era in the social and political progress of mankind and speeding home from the classic shades of Versailles, that superb leader of men, the head of our nation, now acclaimed as 'Wilson of the world,' comes back to our family hearthstone to render an account of his stewardship.

"Will you not say with me that this covenant founded on the principles of justice and equity and inspired by the highest motives of man, will receive approbation everywhere, where men are free or seeking to be free. Based on the fundamental principle of the golden rule, its successful working out will have proved that sacrifice has not been in vain, for from out of devastated country, ruined homes, the triumph of militarism, and the savagery of the despot, the world will nearken to the philosophy of Columbus, of Washington, of Lincoln and of Wilson, and peering into the distant future we can see a landscape of peaceful, contented, happy homes—a world democracy in its full fruition.

Not high raised battlements or labored moat,
Thick walls or moated gate
Not cities proud with spires and towers
Not bays and broad armed ports,
Where, laughing at the storm rich

navies ride:
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where long-browed greatness waits perfume to pride.
No, no, it's men, high-minded men,

As beasts excel cold rocks
And brambles rude.
Men, whom their duties know
And who know their rights,
And knowing their rights dare maintain.

Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan

Very Rev. Joseph P. Coppinger, P.E., state chaplain of the K. of C. was to respond to the toast, "The Church" but was unavoidably detained. At the 11th hour, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan was pressed into service, and the popular chaplain of the K. of C. responded to the toast with a wealth of lessons profitable and edifying to the assembly. He said that the progress, the record of achievement of the knights, was attributable to the fact that it was built on a firm foundation, for God and country, and because of that he said 'twill endure. Occasions like these, he said, show the strength, the intelligence and the force of the knights and in these days when the Bolsheviks, when the socialist, the anarchist, the "League of North Dakota" and all the other isms that strike at the very bedrock of our democracy, the mission of the K. of C. is plain, to combat the evil influences that would destroy all that is great in this broad and fair land. He was enthusiastically applauded, as he sat down.

Hon. Louis Watson

Miss Katherine V. Hennessey was heard to splendid advantage in song numbers and she was obliged to respond to an encore, Hon. Louis Watson of Boston, master of the Massachusetts district, responded to the toast, "The Fourth Degree" but because of the short space of time given him, in order that he might get his train back to the Hub, he was obliged to be very brief, much to the disappointment of his audience. He took occasion to extend his personal congratulations to the members of Bishop Delaney assembly for their progressive and up-to-the-minute methods and hoped that their future activities would continue as they had in the past.

Sir Knight Donoran

Andrew A. McCarthy was heard in two song numbers, one the favorite "When the Boys Come Home," bringing much applause. Sir Knight John J. Donovan of Lawrence, responded to the toast "The Knights and Re-Construction" and he proved to be one of the most delightful after-dinner speakers heard here in a long time. His wit was positively irresistible, and his story about Serg. Larkin and Sergeant McNulty applied to the unceasingness he felt as a speaker was appreciated very much. He said that when he was in the fifth grade in school, the class in geography was taught that Lowell was a place where annually Lawrence high beat them in a football game. Lowell high had taken football out of its sporting calendar and hence we hear little about Lowell in Lawrence now. This elicited a laugh. Re-Construction, he said, is a broad subject, a subject which he feared to approach because of its tremendous possibilities. Why, things move so swiftly these days that when Monday comes you never know what is going to happen the following Saturday night. Only the other day a young man in Lawrence, he said, who never got beyond the fifth grade, started the world by launching the teeny, weeny Bolshevik ideals on an unsuspecting public. We need a new kind of construction, he said, and we must put away much of the old styles. We must eliminate the stumps from our great cities, don't need societies for truth, and must look with suspicion on charity "scraps and loaves." He gave a fine little talk on the reconstruction and his jokes and irresistible good humor brought down the house.

Hon. Chas. S. O'Connor

"Catholic Knighthood," was the subject assigned to Hon. Charles S. O'Connor of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts legislature. Mr. O'Connor's address was easily the gem of the evening, a remarkable oration, driving into history, proving his case with historical fact and giving expression to the finest sentiments of true Americanism, phrased in eloquent language, one has ever been privileged to hear. I assume, he said, that most of you are Irishmen, or the sons or daughters of Irishmen, and since today Ireland's case seems to be before the bar of public sentiment looking for some measure of self-government. We all should feel a compelling interest in her hopes and in her aspirations. Ireland, poor, persecuted, harassed Ireland, with her verdant hills, her smiling lakes where fairies were told to dance in the moonlight. Ireland the mother of chivalrous, God-fearing men and women, true to Holy Mother church, and the loved ideals of purity and honesty. Yet he said were Ireland a nation tonight, and strong and powerful enough to wage war on this country, the sons of the Gael in this country would make knee-deep in Irish blood to defend the Stars and Stripes.

The Knights of Columbus, in its sublime mission, so co-related to the teachings of holy mother church, are just as sorely needed in these days as when knighthood was in flower. It was Columbus who discovered this western world, Catholic mariners and explorers that discovered her rivers and her lakes, Catholic heroes whose names have shone with a lustre on history's pages, from Yorktown to Appomattox, from New Orleans to Vera Cruz, and from the fields of Flanders across the fair soil of unhappy France. Mr. O'Connor's address was of the gripping kind that holds an audience spellbound, and when he closed with an apostrophe "to God, to country and victory" he was given an ovation.

Lieut. Paul Hines

There were delightful songs by Frances Tighe, and the last speaker of the evening was Lieut. Paul Hines of Company A, 102nd Infantry, 26th division, who was recently decorated with a Distinguished Service Cross by Gen. Edwards on the Boston Common. Lieut. Hines related numerous thrilling experiences of himself in his men during the first months of the United States army was on war. One of the incidents of his that proved especially interesting, Lowell people was the fact that unit was the one that relieved members of Company M of the 10th at Chemin des Dames.

The lieutenant, a modest young man spoke entirely impersonal and thought four times, one could not get it to say a word to his exploits. He gave some happy incidents of his life, but not many, because war is a serious business he said.

The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" was the concluding number. Francis J. Mullin, faithful friend of the assembly, was unable to be present because of a severe cold.

The committee in charge were: Dinner committee: Sir Knight John V. Donoghue, P. C., chairman; Sir Knight Edward J. Saunders, Sir Knight John F. Golden, Sir Knight James B. Casey, Sir Knight John J. Lang, Sir Knight John E. Hart, Sir Knight Thomas B. Delaney, P. C., Sir Knight Andrew Molloy, P. C., Sir Knight William H. Gallagher, P. C., treasurer; Sir Knight Arthur J. O'Nolan, secretary.

Reception committee: Sir Knight Dr. Thomas F. Carroll, P. C., chairman; Sir Knight Walter H. Hild, P. C., Sir Knight Robert R. Thomas, P. C., Sir Knight Patrick Cogger, Sir Knight Fred H. Bourke, Sir Knight Daniel H. Walker, Sir Knight Dr. H. Walker, P. A., Sir Knight Hugh C. Osker, Sir Knight Andrew Molloy, Mrs. Andrew McCarthy, Mrs. Alice J. Laurin, and John P. Madeline, were the accompanists.

An Announcement to You!

You can believe this or not, just as you please.

We are not going to try to hoodwink you with clever words, or urge you to do something that is not good for you. What we are going to do is try to show you how to get more for the dollar you spend. We are going to make a few straightforward statements about coke.

"Oh!" say you, "I don't want to have anything to do with coke—it burns out your grate."

Right off we will nail that statement by saying that if Lowell Coke burns out your grate, we will buy you a new grate. So that settles that.

For many years we have been selling thousands and thousands and thousands of tons of Lowell Coke. Intelligent people have been buying it year after year. Now, either they are wrong in doing so or, they are right; either they are unwise or they know something.

First of all, these users of Lowell Coke are the real people of Lowell and surrounding towns. By that we mean the people who are the most thrifty, the people who spend their money wisely, without flourish; people who educate their children, save money, look after their own heating arrangements, and do it all on a moderate income. These people use Lowell Coke year in and year out—for all purposes.

There must be a reason. It isn't that they haven't the money to buy anything else. They have. People who do not use Lowell Coke may say that the reason is that these people don't know any better. The fact of the matter is that the people who do not use Lowell Coke are the ones who do not know any better.

Here's why:

Lowell Coke is better than coal.

We repeat:

LOWELL COKE IS BETTER THAN COAL.

Not for a minute will we admit that it is as good as coal. It is BETTER than coal. You need not take our word for it; we are going to prove it to you. You are to be the judge. From time to time we shall print, in the newspapers of Lowell, advertisements telling in detail just what has been learned by all sorts of people in all sorts of tests—analysis of Lowell Coke from chemists and testimonials of housekeepers and people you know.

Lowell Coke is better than coal because it gives more heat than coal. How many times in coal have you found stone, rock, granite, slate or dirt? You will never find any of those things in Lowell Coke.

When you buy Lowell Coke you are buying heat—that's all.

Do you know what it is that burns in coal? It is carbon that burns, and poisonous gases. Well, Lowell Coke is merely coal with the gases taken out. What is left is carbon, the thing in coal that gives you heat. Coke is carbon. Remember that. The gases are of absolutely no value to you. You might say that Lowell Coke is sterilized coal.

You cannot measure heat by pounds or inches; you measure it, by "units." If a person got an absolutely square deal, he would not buy a ton of this or a ton of that; he would buy a certain number of "heat units."

By actual analysis by disinterested chemists, Lowell Coke showed more heat units per pound than coal.

That proves that there is more heat in Lowell Coke than there is in the same quantity of good coal.

Lowell Coke does not smoulder. It burns and burns until it is reduced to a little ash. With coal you have a lot of unburned lumps, stones, clinkers. There is much less ash from Lowell Coke, therefore it is not so much bother. Lowell Coke is cleaner than coal. It does not fill your house with dust. It is lighter and easier to handle. Bringing up a hod of Lowell Coke is an easy job.

Lowell Coke will hold the fire all through the night.

Lowell Coke, with its even, steady heat, is best for all sorts of cooking—roasting, baking, broiling. Coal either flames or smoulders.

It is easy to start a fire with Lowell Coke.

All we take out of the high grade coal from which we make Lowell Coke are things that are useless for cooking or heating. Lowell Coke has all the good qualities of coal and none of the bad. There is no smoke from Lowell Coke.

Lowell Coke comes in three sizes—Fine, Medium and Coarse.

Therefore:

To sum up, Lowell Coke is better, for all purposes, than coal. We have plenty of it. We can assure you that whenever you want it during the coming year we have plenty for you. We can see no increase to come in the price of Lowell Coke. It is here when you want it, now, next month or next winter. It would not be unwise, however, to enter your order for next winter's supply now.

We insist that Lowell Coke is the most satisfactory fuel you can buy. If we have not convinced you already, we are here in Lowell ready to give you further proof.

Irish Convention Demands President Wilson Uphold Ireland

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—A resolution presented by Cardinal Gibbons urging the peace congress to apply to Ireland the doctrine of national self-determination, and a Declaration of Principles demanding that if any league of nations be created, all features which may infringe on the traditional American policy, including the Monroe doctrine, shall be eliminated, were adopted unanimously yesterday at the closing session of the convention of the Irish race in America.

The declaration says a state of war exists between England and Ireland which, in the interests of the peace of the world, the peace conference cannot ignore.

Three meetings, attended by fully 15,000 representatives of the Irish race chose a committee of 21, including Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, to present this resolution and declaration to President Wilson, and later to appear at the peace conference and demand Irish freedom and the right of self-determination.

Cardinal O'Connell Requests Absence

Cardinal O'Connell sent the following letter of request from Washington: "Ever since coming to Washington I have been busy almost to exhaustion. I regret exceedingly that circumstances and further duties here will prevent my being present at the convention at Philadelphia. The loss will be all mine for I meant with all my heart to meet and greet Don't accept any substitute.

The representatives of our great Celtic race on that occasion.

"But, after all, what I stand for, what my sentiments are regarding the duty of us all in voicing the cause of sacred liberty for Ireland is well known to all those present, in fact to all the world. Only the truth is eternal and even in the eternal walls, it ultimately prevails.

"Right and liberty for Ireland shall prevail and we must work on tirelessly, patiently, righteously, faithfully until falsehood and injustice are vanquished. Salute for me all the dear clergy and sons and daughters of the Gael with a fervent Irish God bless you."

Ex-Mayor James M. Curley of Boston spoke at the evening quiet meeting and counsel his auditors to repeated efforts by his eloquent presentation of Ireland's case. He said that it was the mission of America that won the war and that if the United States ever held the opportunity to pay Ireland for our debt to her the present was the appointed time.

In support of the movement to bring freedom to Ireland the convention pledged to raise within six months $1,000,000, but before Justice Daniel P. Cahalan of the New York supreme court, chairman of the convention, completed the calling of a list of states and cities more than $1,250,000 had been pledged to the cause.

Delegates from many states, representing a large number of Irish organizations, crowded the Academy of Music when Cardinal Gibbons presided at the afternoon session and in a few words presented the resolution calling for the right of Ireland to select its form of government. Applause swept the crowd as the cardinal slowly read the paper.

The enthusiasm aroused by the debate continued as numerous speakers followed the resolutions. Among those who spoke in support of Ireland's freedom were Rev. Norman Thomas, a Presbyterian minister of New York; Archbishop Mooney; Milwaukee; Rahib Joseph Krauskopf; Philadelphia; James G. Mifflin, Protestant Episcopal clergyman of Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Mary McWhorter, Chicago, head of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Henry Gouldard Leach, New York; Thomas J.

Matthews, Providence, national secretary of the A.O.U., and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, Mo.

The convention rose to its feet and cheered several minutes when Rabbi Krauskopf said that President Wilson's declaration that small nations shall have the right to self-government "will not die down and not even

SIGHT OF FOOD MADE HER SICK

Noise Rapped Her Nerves

Mrs. Elise Philato, 137 Gorham street, Lowell, Mass., certainly went through a hard siege of ill health. Probably the trouble started in her stomach and then spread through the nerve system. She states, "I had not been able to work for a long while, in fact I was a complete wreck. I was weak and dizzy. I had no appetite and the sight of food actually made me sick at times. When I heard any loud noise it seemed to me as if I would no longer be able to stand it."

After taking Iron-Lax-Tonic and it has done me so much good that I just can't say anything too strong in favor of it. I am telling all my friends about this wonderful tonic and I hope all people who are sick or ailing will use it. I would spend my last dollar for Iron-Lax-Tonic if I were sick or had any of those things that used to trouble me like dizziness, sickness of the stomach, headaches, and nervousness. And you cannot put it too strong that sick people ought to start taking Iron-Lax-Tonic at once. I feel very grateful for my restored health, and I am now able to work again because I used Iron-Lax-Tonic.

If you feel anything like the way Mrs. Philato did you ought to start taking the Iron-Lax-Tonic treatment at once. Be sure to remember the exact name when buying the remedy, Iron-Lax-Tonic, Adv.

"Liberty in Air," Cardinal Says

Cardinal Gibbons, who recently celebrated his golden jubilee, commemorated the 50th anniversary of his ordination in the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church, presented the document without a formal speech, asserting that his "advanced years and consequent infirmities" rendered him incapable of making such an effort.

"I hold in my hands," said the Cardinal, "a resolution on behalf of Ireland which should appeal to every lover of liberty and justice."

"My friends, there is liberty in the

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

air. The nations of the earth are clamoring for liberty. And why should not freedom-loving Ireland join in the general cry? Yes, Ireland wants freedom to breathe the air of heaven. She wants freedom to stretch her brawny and sinewy arms. She wants freedom to develop her resources. She wants freedom to carve out her own destiny.

"And we are here today to plead the cause of Ireland's sons and daughters, that they may stand erect, redeemed, regenerated and enfranchised on their own sacred soil."

Text of Resolution

"The text of the resolution follows: "We, the delegates to the convention of the Irish race in America, assembled in Philadelphia, the city in which the immortal declaration of American liberty was given to the world, and speaking for many millions of American citizens, call upon the president and congress of the United States of America to urge the peace conference now in session at Paris to apply to Ireland the great doctrine of national self-determination and to recognize the right of the people of Ireland to select for themselves without interference from any other people the form of government under which in future they shall live."

"We urge this claim, in the first place, in the name of justice, recognizing and insisting on the truth set forth by the founders of our republic that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

"We urge this claim in the name of America, insisting, as we have just shown in the case of France, that we are not an ungrateful people and recognizing that no other people have contributed more than those of Irish blood to the creation, the upbuilding, the development and the preservation and defense of our great country."

"We urge this claim in the name of Ireland, because of the unparalleled struggle for now seven and a half centuries that Ireland has carried on for personal existence and liberty; because self efforts to break down and destroy that existence have failed; and because of the extraordinary magnificence by which less than two months ago the people of Ireland declared not alone their dissatisfaction with the government of their land by England, but also their determination to govern themselves without interference from any outside influence or power."

"We urge this claim in the name of humanity because we believe that war cannot be ended and a just and permanent peace cannot be brought about unless the doctrine of self-determination be applied to Ireland, the people of that country be permitted to decide for themselves the form of government under which they shall live."

Ireland's Will Unbreakable

"We point out that England has tried in every way to coerce or to persuade or to cajole the people of Ireland to give up their devotion to their national aspirations and tried them all in vain. Lloyd George within the last few months has been compelled to assert that Ireland is at present as much opposed to British rule as in the days of Cromwell.

"The industries of Ireland have been destroyed, her trade and commerce wiped out, her population cut in two, her leaders deported and held in English jails without indictment or trial, and yet within the last two months the people with an unanimity never before attained have again declared their utter dissatisfaction with English rule and their determination to be free."

"England refuses to listen to the voice of Ireland, but we point out that England likewise refused to listen to

DEATHS

Regains Health
After Years of Stomach TroubleMassachusetts Woman Learns That Right Kind of Tonic Treatment Brings Relief

Good blood is the foundation of health. Once the blood becomes thin and weak the entire body correspondingly loses its tone. The nerves which derive their nourishment directly from the blood are underfed and refuse to do their work properly. Thin blood and starved nerves combine to cause stomach trouble and until blood and nerves are restored to strength the digestive processes are disturbed and troublesome.

Any person suffering from stomach trouble learns to expect keen distress after a meal. Headaches and dizziness are common symptoms and as restless night follows restless night, the body becomes so run down that the sufferer becomes exhausted on slight effort and breathless when climbing stairs.

All this can be corrected by proper treatment as was learned by Mrs. Margaret Gallagher, of No. 30 Nelson street, North Adams, Mass.

Mrs. Gallagher's experience may be profitable to others. She says:

"I have always worked hard, sometimes beyond my strength, and this, I think, caused the stomach trouble which had bothered me for five years. I became very nervous and couldn't sleep. There was a severe pain under the left shoulder. After eating I was in great distress. My stomach felt bloated and I had a queer sensation in my head. At times there was a prickly feeling through my temples and at other times a floating sensation. I became melancholy and wanted to be alone."

"I saw the announcement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a newspaper and procured a box. I felt so much improved after one week's treatment that I continued taking the remedy until my nervousness had entirely disappeared. My stomach has been benefited so much that I can eat without any after distress. The peculiar sensation in my head has also left me and I'm no longer depressed. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those similarly troubled for I have great confidence in their power."

Your town druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for the free booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat."

After leaving the pier, the parade passed through the extension of Sum-

Farther along, at Dewey square, in front of the South station, where the street widens, the first big crowd was encountered and the noise was correspondingly increased. Summer street, business houses, in common with those of other sections of the route, made a brave showing of service flags along with the Stars and Stripes and bunting decorations.

Expanding to Meet
Public Needs

THE packer is a purveyor of foods. Largely dependent on him are the producer, the retailer and the consumer. The farmer looks to the large packing concern to provide outlets for what he raises. The housewife relies upon the packer for an important part of her daily food supply. Retailers expect prompt service and regular deliveries. Thousands of workmen are given gainful employment.

Of all industrial undertakings none is so closely allied to the comfort and security of the nation.

To meet these responsibilities successfully makes large scale operation imperative. For, in order to buy from the grower whenever he is ready to sell, Armour must have a national market to distribute foods everywhere. And conversely, to make food supplies certain, Armour must be able to buy in many producing centers.

Serving both producers and consumers, it is evident that such a business must be conducted fairly and beneficially to all. In no other way can its existence be justified. In no other way could it have thrived.

But to carry out its uses fully, the responsibilities of the business must be met by the responsibilities of those it serves. In its own interests the public must give big business the opportunity to perform the service which is very properly expected of it.

With a multitude of problems to be solved in national collecting and distributing, a complex though smoothly working system has been evolved in the Armour organization through the course of years. Each part dovetails in its work with the rest. All are dependent upon and inter-related with the others.

Food plants would be unable to give stock-growers outlets without the branch houses which are continually competing for trade. And neither the producing plants nor the distributing branches could operate on an efficient and economical basis without the modern refrigerator cars directed under a single management which controls their movements.

In short, the Armour system is the outgrowth of national needs—a system that can give maximum service only as a whole—and that dismembered, would fail to live up to the requirements which the country and city public today demands.

WHAT ADS. DO YOU REMEMBER?

The value of an ad lies in making its message so forcible and its effect so attractive that the reader voluntarily or involuntarily has the ad "stuck in his memory."

If you can design an ad that "sticks in his memory," he will have the impulse to buy the goods advertised as soon as he comes to see if the price offered is a bargain. He may buy the goods and find it for future use.

Stop and think for a moment. Can you remember the ads you read in the street car when you came to work this morning? And you, in fact, read any of them? Do you not in reality rather go under the impression that these ads are changed only once in about three months and you do not have to "keep up with them?" Granted that you did look up over the level of your head and read them, can you remember what they advertised? Can you remember what argument was advanced that you should buy it?

This is a test you may have never before been invited to make. Advertising in The Sun involves on each test as this. For the most part the paper itself, the advertiser and the reader recognize that Sun ads, if they are successful ads, should be productive of profitable results within 72 hours after the paper puts the ad in the reader's hands. ### WILSON IN BOSTON

At 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, following short introductory and felicitous addresses by Gov. Coolidge and Mayor Peters, President Wilson started to tell the 7000 persons gathered in Mechanics hall, something of his experiences in France.

Probably, at some time or other, each one of these 7000 persons has wondered to himself, "What can this League of Nations do for us Americans?" In some part at least, it is expected that this afternoon, the privileged 7000 received assuring information on this subject. Boston, this afternoon, or at least 7000 of her citizens, are envious of all the United States.

Germany and her vassal nations were the problem that first confronted the men at the peace table. Promptly taking its cue from the shrewd and unrelenting Foch, the peace council delegates effectively dealt with the immediate problem as concerns Germany. The League of Nations became the next and most pressing problem.

Boston has always claimed she had great responsibility and a great burden in representing the intellectual side of our nation. It is Boston today that enjoys the privilege of hearing President Wilson first, after his return to America. No Boston paper has been openly hostile to the League of Nations plan. Some Boston papers, although expressing the views of men and interests hostile to the president and his administration, have at all times recently, mentioned his name with respect and courtesy.

It was not to the foreign relations committee of congress or close personal friends on this side, to whom President Wilson addressed his first report of what was in prospect overseas. As in Europe, he talked to the masses, of whom the fortunate 7000 in Mechanics hall this afternoon happen to be representatives.

Boston is the unofficial capital of New England. In honoring Boston by making it the port of his disembarkation, the president further honors New England by telling it first of what his visit to France has accomplished. For over a hundred years New England has been vigorously loyal to the national government. The need of the hour demands that the national government be a participant in forming the League of Nations. President Wilson certainly has a right to expect New England will now, as it has for the last hundred years, stand squarely behind the government in the things it intends to accomplish.

Old Victor Berger, shedding his German tears in the Chicago court room as Judge Ladd's power over his hour-long socialist dissertation, presents a contemptible sight. It is the crocodile who is reputed to weep after gulping down his victim. Berger was ready for his victim, but his tears have come after the victim turned captor.

Boston started using her 8 cent rental "tokens" Saturday morning. They betoken another burden supplementing what the established burdens of R.C.L. involve. Certain canny Bostonians—for a city of "Roosevelts"—in visiting her son's culture is not always a city of complete honesty—have been dropping pieces of paste board in the ticket boxes and this is to be stopped. Next, watch out for a story of counterfeit "tokens" being put in circulation.

GO FARMING? HUH!

It is interesting, is in the line of constructive work and may in the long run, be productive of some slight improvement in New England's agricultural situation but whenever we discuss this back-to-the-farm movement for returning soldiers and sailors—if sailors are included in its scope—let us try to invariably be honest about our facts.

As regards a decline in farming in New England and in this particular part of Massachusetts, every observant man and woman ought to be able to readily give the two paramount reasons for the decline. The first is, that earning one's living from the land, above all things means very hard work and many hours of hard work a day. The "basic 8 hour day" has no relation to something which caters to the whims of Mother Nature as farming does, and never will have.

The other thing that creates an aversion to farming is its necessary isolation. As years progress, the desire of mankind to be gregarious seems to increase. It is lonesome to work alone in a field or in a wood lot. Ask those who have experienced it. "Swapping day's work" in country life while a good arrangement, is not always equitable and certain.

The French have solved the problem of making farm life more intimate by clustering their little farm houses together. The men go out to their small farms a short distance away each morning, returning in the evening. New England is probably not ready to adapt itself to that kind of agricultural life.

So to be entirely honest in this business of sending the fighter to earn his living on the land, it is a duty to him and to the community from whence he comes, as well as to the land itself, that we be absolutely certain he knows what country life involves and that, if he recognizes its hard work and isolation, he is prepared and willing to take it on.

THE MOTHER OF QUENTIN

The villagers of a little town in northern France, for the past few days, not wholly given up self-hilly to their own war sorrows, have been watching with compassion and pity in their hearts—men, women and little children—the sight of an elderly woman known to them as "Madame Roosevelt." Daily she visits the cemetery where the shattered body of her youngest son, Quentin, is buried.

She has been bereft of husband and one son within a year. The war of the Huns was the contributing cause of death in both cases. "The grave is being carefully tended by inhabitants of the locality," the cable reports say. Dying on fields of honor, the French peasants have made the places where American dead find rest, also fields of honor.

The visit of this poor woman again reminds the French that the rental "tokens" Saturday morning, great and well known families in America offered the allies the best pleading what the established burdens of R.C.L. involve. Certain canny Bostonians—for a city of "Roosevelts"—in visiting her son's culture is not always a city of complete honesty—have been dropping pieces of paste board in the ticket boxes and this is to be stopped. Next, watch out for a story of counterfeit "tokens" being put in circulation.

But France will know. She will know that as the nobility of France contributed Marquis de Lafayette to help the American colonies, in later years American nobility, the mother, contributed such men as Quentin Roosevelt and a thousand others, to fight oppression.

APPEAL FOR IRELAND

That was certainly a strong appeal sent out from Philadelphia in behalf of Ireland. It is too bad for England as well as for Ireland, which has been the chief sufferer, that this burning question was not settled long ago.

The democracy of England has been willing to settle it ever since Gladstone's day, but the aristocracy said "no." In 1911, the veto power of the peers was taken away; but they managed to have Sir Edward Carson carry out their wishes in blocking a settlement of the Irish question.

If the present system of aristocracy in Britain were swept away, the opposition to granting Ireland justice would also disappear. As proof of this stands the home rule law passed by the commons, signed by the king, and held up through the opposition of the aristocracy as represented by Sir Edward Carson.

The aristocracy opposes the people of England and Scotland as well as those of Ireland. Why not send the titled nobility after the Hohenzollerns?

We will all be sorry for that Marlboro soldier, now a patient at the base hospital, Camp Devens, who is reported to be turning blue by slow degrees. His malady is reminiscent of that fellow who used to troupe with Barnum's side show and whose entire face and body were of a dark blue color. He was an unhappy and dejected looking specimen and the more so when he attempted to sell his photographs at a dime each. The poor Marlboro chap has indeed been dealt a hard blow by war.

The late Patrick Henry may have been, as one contemporary paragrapher intimates, eloquent, patriotic and narrow in his views, but many of us take issue on the accusation of narrowness. A man strong enough to say, "Give me liberty or give me death," inspires us all as being the kind of a man who, when taking a stand for the right, wants the entire porker or nothing. As for intimating that if he were alive today he would join Borah in declining to attend President Wilson's Tuesday evening dinner, that is a very wicked slander to bring against a dead patriot.

Most of us will regard it as being extremely tactful on the part of the first woman who ever had a chance to address a German legislative body. Frau Marie Juchacz, that in starting her address she congratulated the opponents of women suffrage by saying, "Gentlemen and Ladies."

Having sternly decided and announced that as commissioners and head of the city's present administration they will not stand for appropriations whose adoption would mean a $30 tax rate this year, let our five commissioners who start this year so businesslike, reconsecrate themselves to the task of seeing how far toward getting a hundred cents worth of value for each dollar spent by the city, they can go.

No one seems to have taken any particular notice of Senator Vardaman's attacks on the League of Nations plan. Everyone seems to have recognized that it was his way of attacking the president again. His hailiwick, Mississippi, repudiated Vardaman last fall and the voters intimated they had tolerated both his long hair and his "standing in the way of the procession" long enough.

Good old river Kennebec! Many times has her winter product cooled the refreshing summer glass of lemonade and summer glass of—other things. But at the present time, other honors should be accorded good old Kennebec. Her ice cutting industry is at present furnishing work for 1000 returned Maine soldiers.

Saco, Me., reports one of her reliable citizens has seen a sure enough bluebird and, appropriately enough, he was roosting over near a sure enough pussy willow. How much more cheerful and how much more whole-one is this news from Saco than the stuff recently sent over the wire in the guise of being a report on the Hall murder trial.

When Maximilian Herden publicly asserts that the German people, even now, see no crime in their fatherland's having started the great war, it is a strong reminder of the obstinate small boy on the ground who, in spite of receiving a severe punishment, has not arrived at the point in his distress where he has sense to cry "Kull."

How Gray's Syrup Breaks Your Cough

In breaking up your cough and correcting the accompanying ailments, you will find that Gray's Syrup brings prompt relief in three distinct ways.

First—immediately on taking Gray's Syrup the dry, inflammatory condition of the throat is eased. Swallowing becomes less difficult and the throat performs its natural function in comfort.

Second—no matter how tight and dry a cough is, Gray's Syrup loosens it up. The cough rapidly diminishes under consistent treatment and does not again become distressing enough to continue to strain the throat and lung muscles.

Third—the phlegm which collects on the affected parts and clogs the tubes is quickly raised. The healing and soothing influence of Gray's Syrup reaching into direct contact with the affected parts brings them back to the normal condition.

BOYLE BEATS PARKER

Lowell Boxer Decisively Defeats Highly Touted Boston
Boy in Fast Bout

Fighting like a champion over the entire route, Phinney Boyle of Lowell completely outclassed the highly touted Charles Parker of Boston and won the decision in a whirlwind 12-round bout at Lawrence Saturday afternoon.
Before one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds that ever assembled in the Lawrence Opera House.
The scenes enacted at the bout began description. They can only be compared with those attending a big world's series ball game. Rooters came from near and far and few depended on their vocal organs to show their sentiments. They were armed with fish horns, cow bells, auto horns, etc., and many also had big rolls of the "long green," which they took the bands off with the least provocation.
While the bout itself is worthy of great space and commendation the "side issues" were so unique that they deserve "favorable mention." Boston followers of Parker came over the road in conspicuously labelled auto trucks, while Lowell friends of Boyle also had autos chartered for the occasion. Others came from Manchester, Nashua, Haverhill, and various other places for the bout was looked upon as one of the most important to be decided in this vicinity for many years.

After a good preliminary card Ben Keaveny introduced the main bout principals and as each bowed in recognition the theatre rocked with enthusiasm. The boys weighed in under the stipulated 130 pounds. Parker objected to the regular club referee and after considerable discussion Jerry Moore of Boston was agreed upon.
Boyle was in perfect condition and he went at his man from the lap of the bell and he never slowed up until after the final gong. He showed a remarkable repertoire, possessing lightning like speed, wonderful foot work, great hitting abilities, was perfect on distance and remained cool throughout. Rarely has he put up such a whirlwind battle. He fought with a determination to win and he had absolutely powerless. He kept away from the ropes during the entire rounds and several times he had Parker in distress, but he never lost his head.

PHINNEY BOYLE.

He too had a number of every opportunity but boxed cautiously at all times.
The rapidity in which Boyle scored was a stiff left jab and a right cross completely bewildered the Boston boy.
Parker had never before been punished so. He had a clean state when he entered the ring, and seemed to imagine that he could not be hurt.
He soon realized that he had met his superior in Boyle, for the Lowell lad had him at sea and made him miss repeatedly.
In only one round, the third, did
Parker have a pronounced advantage.
Here he got in several telling rights, but Boyle demonstrated right at this point that he had profited by past experiences and instead of backing to the ropes he closed in and clinched and held till the bell rang.
Before and after the third Boyle had Parker at his mercy. He never allowed the Boston wonder to get set. When Parker would come in, Boyle would side step and then let go a shower of blows that would force Parker to hang on to save himself. Boyle did much damage with his left to the head and right to the body. Seldom did he miss and many times, particularly in the sixth and seventh and eleventh and twelfth, did he unwork a fusilade of blows that rocked his opponent and forced him to clinch to prevent further punishment.
As the bout progressed the Parker men realized that their "hope" was broken and they tried in "hysteria," but they failed to succeed. Their only chance was to have Parker send over a K. O. They pleaded with Parker to produce the clean producer, and while the Boston lad worked desperately to meet their request, Boyle was too shifty and clever to allow a haymaker to land.
The final round of the encounter was one that will not soon be forgotten by those present. Boyle realizing that he had the bout won, worked like a machine, while Parker, desperate in the face of defeat, was wild and furious. Boyle was travelling at a hurricane pace, with Boyle on the long

Many of the Lowell fans who saw Phinney Boyle defeat Charles Parker at Lawrence Saturday afternoon "stayed over" and took in the Lowell-Lawrence polo game there in the evening, and they had the pleasure of witnessing another Lowell triumph, for Capt. Harkins' crew trimmed the Hardy led outfit by the score of 5 to 2. It was some game, too. One that forced both clubs to go the limit all the way. Both teams had played in the afternoon, Lowell here with New Bedford, and Lawrence at home with Worcester. Both had one game on the right side of the state, and inspired by the afternoon's victories, the two teams went into the cage determined to win. But the Lawrence club, like Charles Parker, was up against superior talent and the Harkins club made it a real "Lowell day in Lawrence" by romping home a winner.
Harkins started for Lowell, while Quigley and Farrner, excellent for the down river outfit. One of the Lawrence goals was a "buke," but the referee didn't see it and hence was justified in calling it a score. It came when Quigley banged the ball through a hole in the side of the cage. Pence knew it did not pass by him and while he objected strenuously, the referee who was at the other end of the hall gave the only decision possible. However, the cage should be repaired as it is unjust to allow it to remain in its present condition.

The score:
LOWELL: Harkins, 3r; Quigley, 2r; Griffith, c; Hart, 1r; Conley, 1r; Asquith, b.
LAWRENCE: Farrner, 1r; Pence, 1r; Hardy, 1r; Blount, 1r.

AFTERNOON GAME
Lowell won from New Bedford in the afternoon before a good sized crowd at the Crescent rink by the score of 5 to 2. The entire Lowell team played at top form, with Hart, Harkins and Griffith doing some splendid passing and driving in the offense and Asquith and Pence turning in a good performance on the defense.
Lincoln, Hart and Conley, excelled for the visitors, while "Wild" Charley Farrell entertained as usual with his "heathly" swinging. The score:
LOWELL: Hart, 1r; Lincoln, 1r; Harkins, 2r; Griffith, c; Asquith, b; Conley, 1r; Pence, 1r.
NEW BEDFORD: Farrner, 1r; Pence, 1r; Hardy, 1r; Blount, 1r.

POLO NOTES
Lowell observed the holiday in a very auspicious manner, beating New Bedford and Lawrence in one day is sufficient cause for celebrating.
Lawrence will play here tomorrow night. The down river club is out for revenge after the beating handed to them Saturday night and a battle royal is expected.

Providence set the pace in the league last week, by winning four games and dropping out. Lowell won three and lost two, Salem and Worcester broke even, Lawrence won two and lost three, and New Bedford won one and lost four.

On Friday night Worcester with Big Lee Taylor on the rush line will play Lowell at the Crescent rink.
The schedule for the week follows:
Tonight: Lowell at Worcester, New Bedford at Lawrence, Providence at Salem.
Tuesday: Lawrence at Lowell, Worcester at Providence, Salem at New Bedford.
Wednesday: Lowell at Lawrence, Providence at Worcester.
Thursday: Lawrence at Salem, Providence at Worcester.
Saturday: Lowell at Providence, Salem at Lawrence, New Bedford at Worcester.

SHUBERT AND DE FOE TO MEET
The Crescent A.A. will reopen on Thursday night, with Al Shubert, the New Bedford "cheerful" and Billy De Foe of St. Paul in the main event of nine rounds. Both of these boys are noted performers and indications point to a very fast bout.
Shubert recently quit the ranks of the bantamweights. For four years he held the undisputed New England championship and always has been one of the "big five" in the bantam ranks. He entered the army to fight for his country and after several months' service was discharged just before Christmas a heavier boy, no longer able to make the bantamweight limit. So he entered the ranks of the featherweights. He hopes to work his way up the scale and get a crack at Johnny Kilbane.
De Foe, who has been in the naval reserve at Newport, has a great record. He has stopped Battling Rabbe, who has been seen here, and has pinned Chick Hayes decisively. There is scarcely a featherweight of note whom he has not met and in the last year or so he has been boxing the near-lightweights.

WHAT JEWISH WELFARE BOARD IS DOING

A change from the study of automobiles to that of business methods and organizations, has been made by visitors at Kelly Field, Texas, who are awaiting discharge from military to civilian life. The Jewish welfare board of Camp Travis which originated and is successfully conducted at Camp Travis, Agricultural school, has arranged with the co-operation of the San Antonio chamber of commerce, an intensive business course. Lectures are given on business organization, salesmanship, finance, trade prospects and business reconstruction, and after each lecture the men are given an opportunity to consult with representatives of the United States employment bureau, concerning their own cases. Four hundred soldiers registered for the course on the opening night.

Matzo for Jewish Soldiers

Mortimer L. Selig, chairman of the Jewish welfare board's finance committee, who is now in France, has authorized the purchase of 100,000 pounds of matzo for use by Jewish members of the American Expeditionary Forces and Army of Occupation, during Passover week, beginning April 7th. The matzo will be especially baked at the Jewish consistory here. Several thousand pounds will be placed aboard transports leaving France during the holiday week.

Soldiers Thank Their Hostess

Mrs. Max Hollander, prominent New York clubwoman, prizes above all of her other possessions a wrist watch and bracelet—the gift of two hundred grateful boys in uniform. Mrs. Hollander is hostess at dances given twice a week by the New York section council of Jewish Women, for the Jewish welfare board, for the men in uniform. A few days ago, the boys gathered together contributions, ranging from one cent to one dollar, from those who had enjoyed the dances, and presented Mrs. Hollander with the watch bracelet in token of their gratitude.

Lifting the Sailor's Load

The number of discharged sailors who leave the Pelham Base naval training station at Pelham Bay, N. Y., carrying a heavy galling sack on their shoulders is daily decreasing, since the Jewish welfare board representative at this station arranged to forward these bulky bundles for the men. More than a truckload of baggage sacks leaves the Jewish welfare board building at Pelham each day.

Among the other activities of the Jewish welfare board at Pelham are weekly evening lectures, given under the auspices of the New York city department of education.

Following the Flag to Panama

The Jewish welfare board's "Follow the Flag" policy has found its expression in work among soldiers stationed at Fortification in the canal zone. An employment bureau has been organized by the Cristobal branch of the Jewish welfare board, and hundreds of discharged soldiers have secured good positions through it, with the Panama canal and Panama Railroad company. Transports from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and hospital ships returning from France are met here before going through the Panama canal and the Jewish boys on board are made comfortable.

Several hundred men stationed at Fort Sherman and Randolph have enjoyed concerts given by Arnold Kasse, Russian pianist under the auspices of the Jewish welfare board. Nine J. W. B. Centers in France. The Jewish welfare board has announced the opening of nine centers for American soldiers in France. In addition to a club-house in Paris, the Jewish welfare board centers are located at Le Mans, St. Nazaire, Dijon, Alencon, Bordeaux, Tours, Brest and Coblentz. Other club houses are being opened.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL

William Coyle, 14, of 23 Marsh street, died at St. John's hospital at 4 o'clock Sunday morning as the result of being shot Saturday by his playmate, Frederick J. Smith, 14, of 26 Sargent street.

Treat every one of them alike—use Resinol Ointment. Cuts, burns, rashes, pimples and like ailments are successfully and quickly relieved by its use. No home should be without a jar. Have you yours? If not buy it today.

Resinol Soap keeps the skin clear and healthy, and makes a fine hair wash for the youngsters. At all druggists.

Smith was taken into custody by the police and released on bail.

The two boys had left their homes early in the morning with an old .22-calibre revolver and some cartridges to go hunting. They went out West Meadow road and, while in the rear of the Lowell General hospital, Smith, who was carrying the weapon, accidentally discharged it, according to his story, the bullet entering Coyle's neck.

The ambulance was summoned, and the injured boy taken to St. John's hospital, where he died at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Smith told the story of the affair to the police, and was first booked on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a pistol without a permit. This charge was afterwards changed to a technical charge of manslaughter.

William Coyle was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Coyle. He leaves two sisters, Josephine and Margaret, and one brother, Michael, of Springfield.

ANNUAL COLONIAL PARTY

Colonial hall was a bower of beauty Saturday evening, the occasion being the annual dancing party of the Y.M. and Y.W.H.A. The young ladies were dressed in the costumes of long ago, and the large number of khaki-clad boys who were on hand for the occasion gave the affair a pleasing military aspect. A jazz orchestra furnished music, and the merry company tripped the light fantastic until a late hour. To Miss Bessie Brans and Miss Sophie Wollman was due in a large measure the successful outcome of the event, and the following committees also did their share to make the occasion one of the pleasantest of its kind:

Committee on arrangements—Misses Sadie Cohen, Ida Levy, Minnie Marnar and Mildred Stollans. Refreshment committee—Misses Sarah Shapiro, Bessie Borash, Daisy Ginsberg and Minnie Duffin. Reception committee—Misses May LaBovitz, Mildred Cantor, Frances Silverblatt, Ida Friedman and Rose Bronstein. Publicity committee—Miss Bessie Braverman.

Mr. Rooney enjoys a splendid reputation for honesty and integrity among a very large number of Lowell people.

TWO ALARM FIRE

A threatening blaze in the cellar of the four-story tenement block at the corner of Worthen and Market streets, owned by D. Sakelarios, was responsible for the sounding of two alarms from box 12 shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Fortunately, however, the quick work of the firemen prevented the blaze from making any headway and the fire was confined to the cellar and street floor of the building. As soon as the blaze was discovered the tenants of the house were notified and they all left the building, some of them descending to the ground on the firemen's ladders.

ELDON B. KEITH DIES IN LONDON

HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

The Matthew Temperance Institute held a ladies' night Saturday evening at the club rooms on Central street. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, and favors were distributed during the evening.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN WINNER IN THEMIS CONTEST FOR OLD SOUTH PRIZES

Among the prize winners of the theme contest for the old South prizes at Boston, whose awards were made last night, was Eliot D. Hutchinson of Lowell, who won first prize.

2% on Sales 11% on Investment

Isn't this a reasonable profit?

It is what Swift & Company earned in 1918.

2 cents on each dollar of sales—only a fraction of a cent per pound—was too small to have any noticeable effect on prices.

11% on investment (capital and surplus) means only fair returns to the 25,000 shareholders; they received 8% dividends in 1918.

The 1918 earnings of Swift & Company were equivalent to a profit of only made Washington's birthday at Old South Meeting House, was Eliot D. Hutchinson of Lowell, who won first prize.

Young Hutchinson is the eldest son of the Rev. Oliver W. Hutchinson of the Highland Methodist church. The contest was open to students in the 1918 classes of Boston high schools. Although Eliot Hutchinson was not at the time a resident of Lowell, he now regards Lowell as his home inasmuch as his father is settled in a pastorate here.

The subject of the prize winning theme was, "Three Republics, United States, France and Switzerland—a comparison of their constitutions to show resemblance and difference." This contest is an annual event and the winning of first prize is credited with carrying considerable honor with it.

HELD FOR BIG EVERETT HOLDUP

Auditor Among Those Arrested
For Robbery of General
Electric Paymaster

Two Others Taken Into Custody
in Connection With
Daring Daylight Holdup

EVERETT, Feb. 24.—Charles S. Whittemore, general auditor for the General Electric Co., was arrested at his home in Madison, today, charged with conspiracy and assault, in connection with the attack on Frank R. Brown, assistant paymaster at the local plant of the company, who was held up on Dec. 29, and robbed of the weekly payroll, amounting to $12,000. Louis Bennett of Boston, familiarly known as "Poco" Bennett, and Charles Mortalli, alias Charles Celeste, also were arrested today in the same connection, a charge of assault being placed against them. Mortalli was arrested at his home in Roxbury and Bennett was found in Cambridge. Four men, previously had been arrested in New York, and are under indictment.

Brown had been to a bank in Everett to draw the weekly payroll for the company's foundry here and was on his way back to the plant with the money in a leather handbag when another machine suddenly drew across the roadway and Brown's driver had to come to a halt. Almost immediately, half a dozen men stepped out and forced Brown to deliver over the bag. Their appearance was so sudden that neither Brown nor a guard who was riding with him, had opportunity to resist. As the highwaymen turned and started away, one of them fired point blank at Brown, seriously wounding him. He recovered at a Boston hospital, after several weeks.

The robbery took place about 9 o'clock in the morning and, although several persons were found who saw the big car speeding away, the men were able to escape. Later the police traced the machine, which was found to have been stolen, to New York.

SUGGEST POLL TAX OF $8 A YEAR

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Feb. 21.—A poll tax of $8 per year for the next three years is a suggestion which is meeting with much favor among members of the legislative committee on taxation, as a means of raising revenue to meet the expense of the $20,000,000 bill providing that the state shall resume the payment of the $10 per month bounty to its soldiers and sailors in the war.

Furthermore, the committee intends later to report a bill which will make certain the collection of every poll tax, as it feels that it would be poor policy to embark upon a $20,000,000 program without making certain that the revenue will be forthcoming.

Senator Charles L. Gifford of Barnstable, chairman of the ways and means committee, has suggested the bigger poll tax method of raising the necessary funds, and Senator Malcolm H. Nichols, chairman of the committee on taxation, figures that the tax must be as high as $8 in order to yield the required revenue in three years.

According to the 1918 figures, the poll taxes assessed in this state last April totaled 1,054,200, but if the truth be known it is probable that not more than half of these were collected. Making allowance for the additional number who will try to escape payment when the tax is made four times as large, it is evident either that the legislature must provide some better method of collection or increase the amount above the $8 figured by Senator Nichols.

Senator Gifford is not keen for the poll tax method of obtaining money. He believes the commonwealth should devote to its own uses the immense sum collected in the income tax, but last year's legislature made that impossible by providing for a permanent method of distributing that money to the cities and towns. This, according to the cape senator, leaves the state confronted with the task of discovering some new source of revenue. Only two sources are available, he says, these being real estate and individuals, and as he feels that real estate is already too heavily burdened, he is compelled to take the view that the additional revenue must be obtained through a tax on the citizen himself.

HOW RHEUMATISM BEGINS

The excruciating agonies of rheumatism are usually the result of failure of the kidneys to expel poisons from the system. If the irritation of these uric acid crystals is allowed to continue, incurable bladder or kidney disease may result. Attend to it at once. Don't resort to temporary relief. The sick kidneys must be restored to health by the use of some sterling remedy which will prevent a return of the disease.

Get some GOLD MEDAL, Bantam Oil Capsules immediately. They have brought back the joys of life to countless thousands of sufferers from rheumatism, lame back, lumbago, sciatica, gall stones, gravel and other affections of the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and allied organs.

They will attack the poisons at once, clear out the kidneys and urinary tract and the soothing healing oils and herbs will restore the inflamed tissues and organs to normal health.

All others are imitations. Ask for GOLD MEDAL, and be sure the name GOLD MEDAL is on the box. Three sizes, at all good druggists.
